Hearst, Fortson Flayed by Rivers In Red Hot Attack

Candidate's Gloves Come Off in Direct Arrangement of Athens Judge for Becoming Tool of Roosevelt's Bitter Foe.

PAPER'S MALIGNING OF SOUTH SHOWN

Rivers Quotes Booklet Issued by Hearst's Georgian Ridiculing the Rural Sections of Georgia.

In a slashing two-fronted attack on Senator Charles D. Redwine and Judge Blanton Fortson, Speaker E. D. Rivers last night labeled his two opponents in the governor's race the Gold Dust twins of William Randolph Hearst and the republican party, "tossed them both in the lap of Governor Talmadge and predicted that on September 9 the people of Georgia will crush the 'republican-Redwine-Fortson' alliance and elect him governor by an overwhelming majority."

"Fortson has lined up with Hearst, President Roosevelt's bitter enemy and the sponsor of Governor Landon," Speaker Rivers declared. "His immunity is ended. I tried to treat him as the high-type gentleman he professed himself to be, but I can no longer ignore these attacks, the viciousness of them, the sources from which they spring."

The Lakeland candidate directed his red-hot fire against five targets, Hearst, the republican party, Talmadge, Redwine and Fortson. A pouring down of his supporters, which packed the Ansley hotel roof and overflowed into meeting rooms on the lower floor, cheered him time and again as he tore into his opponents and their sponsors, the Liberty League.

Five Men Charged In Black Legion Plot

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Five men were charged today with a Black Legion plot to murder a city commissioner of suburban Highland Park in a series of indictments returned by the state grand jury investigating the black-clad night riding organization.

The five, whose names were withheld pending their arrest, were charged with conspiring against the life of Martin H. Zink, former superintendent of the suburb's department of public works, who has been a member of the city council for several years.

They also were charged with conspiring to kill Arthur L. Kingsley, publisher of the suburb's community newspaper. Sixteen alleged members of the Black Legion previously had been charged with plotting against Kingsley's life, but grand jury aids said the new indictment was based on separate plot to do away with the publisher.

NEW DEAL ISSUE WILL BE TESTED IN TWO PRIMARIES

Mississippi, South Carolina Vote for Senators; Party Managers Watch Minnesota, Michigan.

By the Associated Press.

After strenuous campaigns in which each stood on his record of support for the New Deal, Senators Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and James E. Byrnes, of South Carolina, face the voters today in democratic primaries. Little political activity is scheduled in other sections. While President Roosevelt is clearing his White House desk to depart for western drought areas in the evening, Governor Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, will survey the New York situation at Buffalo with state party leaders.

Speaking at Chautauqua, N. Y., yesterday, the republican nominee warned against "the danger of our teachers becoming propagandists" and said "free education has failed if class distinctions are allowed to develop." Tomorrow in Buffalo he will speak on government finances.

Aided by Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, former Governor Bennett Connor seeks to replace Harrison in the senate. Two foes of the Roosevelt administration, Thomas J. Stoney and William C. Harrell, are Byrnes' opponents. The nomination is equivalent to election in both Mississippi and South Carolina.

The situation in Minnesota and Michigan are being watched closely by party managers, for possible effects of the national campaign. Lieutenant Governor Hjalmar Petersen took the oath to succeed the late Governor Floyd B. Olson at St. Paul yesterday. The state central committee of the farmer-labor party plans to discuss a successor to Olson as nominee to the senate soon after the funeral tomorrow. Among those mentioned are Representative Ernest Lundeen, State Attorney General Harry Peterson, and John P. Devaney, chief justice of the state supreme court.

Republican leaders in Michigan expressed doubt yesterday that the pro-Roosevelt declaration by Senator James Couzens would hurt their cause; but democrats contended to the contrary.

'THIS IS LAST TIME,' KEY TELLS VOTERS

Mayor Defends Record in Capitol View Speech; Boykin, McRae in Clash.

James L. Key, mayor of Atlanta for 10 years, longer than any man in the city's history, told a large audience at the Capitol View school last night that he will retire from public life if elected mayor for a new three-year term, for which he is offering.

The mayor's announcement, which came as a distinct surprise to scores of his friends, occurred at about the same time as a brush between Solicitor General John A. Boykin and his opponent, William G. McRae, candidates for the nomination in the state primary, September 9.

Nearly a score of other candidates for political office from congressman to members on the Atlanta board of education addressed that meeting and another one at the Labor Temple, held under the sponsorship of the carpenters' local, No. 225.

Beverly Irwin, young attorney, presided at the school meeting, which was sponsored by Key. The mayor was introduced by J. O. Heard.

"This is the last time you will have an opportunity to vote for me for public office," Key said as he opened his address. "I'll never offer for public office again. I'm not as strong and robust as I have been, but I believe."

Cobb Says: Frogs Have Plenty Sense

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 24.—A lady naturalist at the Smithsonian in Washington has been experimenting and she says that frogs not only listen to political speeches on the radio but, by their croaks at the finish, indicate a deep appreciation of same. This helps to confirm an opinion I've had all along, that the only end of a frog which should command my entire approval is the end the legs grow on—especially when fried in cracker crumbs.

On second thought, though, maybe the frog has more brains than I'm giving him credit for. When you applaud at the end of a broadcast, there's no chance for an encore. It may mean merely you're so glad the performance is over.

Deen Assails Charges Against E. D. Rivers

Congressman Braswell Deen, of Alma, is shown last night at the Ansley telling a large crowd and the state-at-large that Speaker E. D. Rivers was offered the chance to run for congress from the eighth congressional district on the democratic ticket at the time his opponent alleged he offered to run on the republican ticket for $25,000. Congressman Deen branded the charges false. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

NEW RULES ISSUED G. W. HARRISON SR. FOR COUNTY AUTOS DIES AT RESIDENCE

Reforms Ordered Following Grand Jury's Report on Abuses of Privileges.

Specific reforms in the use of county owned cars by county employees were urged yesterday by the Fulton grand jury, and the Fulton board of commissioners immediately issued orders designed to correct abuses of privileges accorded county workers.

In a resolution passed by the commissioners in special session following a conference of the board with county employees, it was ordered that no one except county employees is to drive county cars; that no county car may be taken out of the county without express permission of the department chairman; that a new system of recording gas and oil disbursement be installed; that no gas and oil be issued except to the county-owned car which it is intended to fuel; that all county employees to whom cars are assigned be notified that their cars are for official use only, except by special permission of the department chairman; and that the county commissioners; and that

Poles Jail American In Custom Technicality

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The State Department was advised today that a Polish citizen at Ostrow had sentenced Mrs. Dorothy Atkinson, of Minneapolis, to one year imprisonment for failure to declare a $5,000 letter of credit and $14 at the Polish frontier.

Mrs. Atkinson was a voting delegate to the international conference of university women in session at Krakow, Poland.

Thomas H. Bevan, American consul general at Warsaw, reporting he was advised of the case late today by Mrs. Atkinson's daughter, said he sent a clerk to Ostrow immediately to render assistance and obtain Mrs. Atkinson's release under bond if possible.

"This is the last time you will have an opportunity to vote for me for public office," Key said as he opened his address. "I'll never offer for public office again. I'm not as strong and robust as I have been, but I believe."

Vienna Fears Anti-Nazi Putsch; Police, Storm Troops in Readiness

VIENNA, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Military excursions and alarms beset Vienna tonight in the midst of rumored fears of an anti-Nazi putsch.

Police and Catholic storm troops, the semi-military organization of Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, were reported ordered to maintain a state of alarm.

Police held to a "state of readiness" for an hour and then relaxed in their barracks. Storm troops kept up the state of "alarm" all afternoon.

In the midst of the excitement, some 200 federal soldiers were sent through the inner city of Vienna to the community containing the government buildings.

Police and storm troop officers declared their action merely constituted "exercises," and the war department said the soldiers merely changed stations because of maneuvers.

Leaders of the Heimwehr denied any sudden steps were contemplated by that private army of about 35,000 to 40,000 men headed by Prince Ernst

LANDON DECLARES UNBIASED SCHOOLS ARE NATION'S HOPE

Denounces Use of Governmental Machinery to Preserve Power; Free Speech Vital to Nation.

(Text of Address in Page 8)

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(UP)—Education untainted by propaganda is a vital necessity on America "because the tide is running against free government," Governor Alf M. Landon said tonight in the second address of his eastern campaign tour.

On this historic spot where a few days ago President Roosevelt delivered an address on foreign affairs, the republican presidential nominee accused the New Deal of using the machinery of the federal government "to keep itself in power."

"When money is forcibly taken by government from its citizens and used to tear down those things most precious to our people," Governor Landon said, "we see propaganda in its most shabby form."

"Little Politics in Speech." "We may as well face the fact that the tide is running against free government today. In many lands the hand of government is closing down on education. It is being made into a tool for autocratic purposes."

Governor Landon's speech was almost devoid of politics as he entered President Roosevelt's home state in a bid for New York's electoral votes. He came into New York from the green hills of Pennsylvania—his boyhood home.

The republican nominee paused at Connetquot, Pa., and just as he finished a brief speech, three shots were fired. It was not an attempt to assassinate Governor Landon, but a volley fired by police who arrested an alleged pickpocket.

The man gave his name as Thomas L. Delmonico, of Pittsburgh. Governor Landon was several hundred feet away from the scene of the shooting and did not notice the incident. Delmonico, injured, was taken to Meadville and placed in jail. Police said he was trying to pickpocket.

WOMAN DISCLOSES PLOT IN MILK WAR

Confession Bares $125 Offer To Terrorize Grocers, City Police Aver.

A confession yesterday from a woman arrested with two men on suspicion of bombing in the current milk "war" here revealed, police reported, her husband was offered $125 to terrorize Atlanta grocers, and that the trio plotted through a grocery window a brick to which was attached a note of warning to the owner.

The woman, Mrs. Eva Henson; her husband, Olon Henson, and Jack Rodman, all of Whitwell street addresses, were arrested early yesterday morning near a Rawdon street grocery. Halves of brick with notes of warning attached were found in their car, according to police.

The woman, Mrs. Henson, denied knowledge of the recent bombings and asserted she and the two men were arrested in their first act of terrorism, police said. She also stated that when her husband told her he had been offered $125 to toss warnings into groceries he did not tell her who made the offer or what places he was to visit.

She said she printed four notes of warning in script shortly before the trio went out to deliver them, police said.

Fair and Sisk Granted Reprieves of 30 Days

Governor Talmadge, acting on a request of the prison commission, last night granted 30-day reprieves to Fred D. Fair and William Sisk, condemned murderers under sentence to die in the electric chair on September 4.

Fair, found guilty of the murder of J. E. McDaniel, Atlanta police officer, on August 12, 1928, escaped six years ago from Fulton tower and had been out of the state. He was captured recently in Enid, Okla., returned here and resented.

Sisk was under sentence to die for the filling-station murder of David Lord, who was shot to death in a holdup. Marvin Honea already has died for the crime in which Sisk was allegedly implicated.

Attorneys Len B. Guillebeau and W. R. Hewlett, acting for Fair, pointed out in their petition that but 11 days remained before the date set for execution, called attention to the fact that Fair has applied for commutation and stated that insufficient time was available for necessary legal actions.

England Says Second Incident Is Closed; Madrid Assures U. S. Spain Will Pay for Industries.

By the Associated Press.

German Nazi hatred of communism "still perils" the peace of Europe, French proponents of the neutrality pact in the Spanish civil war said last night.

Nonetheless, French diplomatic circles expressed satisfaction with Germany's announced immediate arms embargo against the Spanish belligerents.

The Quai D'Orsay went to work on an international agreement which, it was predicted, soon would bind European powers to a neutrality accord.

Officials were jubilant over the reich's reply to their proposed neutrality pact while diplomats agreed that the Nazi move had ended much of the Nazi talk in European chancelleries.

The French seized on Great Britain's attitude in considering the Spanish search of the British ship, Gibe-Zerion, a closed incident, and the German arms embargo as indications that Europe was determined to continue fighting against spread of the Spanish strife from the Iberian peninsula.

Sincere Desire For Peace. Nazi Germany stressed her "sincere desire for peace" in declaring the arms embargo before the Madrid government officials in a move to win the support of the rebel General Emilio Mola at Segovia.

Rebel forces, meanwhile, were said to have traveled by train from Seville to Badajoz and to Burgos. The apparent facility of the rebel forces in moving about the war-torn countryside was causing concern among both officials and civilians at Madrid.

The government forces, it was said, did not have enough fighting men to

$1,000,000 Libel Suit Faces Mary Pickford

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mary Pickford, screen and radio star, tonight faced a $1,000,000 suit for slander and libel—charges brought by Raymond Cornell, retired Wellesley organ manufacturer.

Attorney Francis B. Burns has been appointed by Federal Judge John Knox to take evidence in the action. Burns said Cornell claimed he had been slandered by Miss Pickford here in February, 1934. It was then, Cornell charged, that he was attempting to sell the actress a manuscript of Mary Baker Eddy's instructions to one of her students.

Cornell maintained, Burns said, "when he met Miss Pickford, she 'abused' him and later left Boston for Cape Cod claiming she had been threatened with kidnapping. Stories quoting her as saying mysterious visitors forced her to leave Boston, Cornell declared, had injured his business and reputation."

16 Anti-Stalin Plotters Executed by Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Sixteen men convicted of a plot to overthrow Joseph Stalin and establish a fascist government, have been executed, it was officially announced today.

A terse statement said the central executive committee of the soviet union had declined an appeal for mercy and that all 16, convicted and sentenced early yesterday, had been shot.

The defendants—including Leon Kamenoff and Gregory Vinovieff, once high in bolshevik councils—had been sentenced to suffer "the highest measure of social defense—death before a firing squad."

All confessed their participation in the plot.

and others seeking to bring about the ruin of President Roosevelt.

national convention at Philadelphia and the Roosevelt presidential election in deciding to center the support of the Roosevelt forces behind him forced Judge Fortson and Judge W. W. Larsen, of Dublin, to take either one of two courses—to withdraw or to line up with the opposition.

"Judge Larsen won the undying love of democratic Georgia when he gracefully withdrew from the race," the speaker declared. "But Fortson chose to go into the camp of the enemy. There he is now and there he shall remain throughout the campaign."

The candidate followed Representative Braswell Deen, of Alma, who gave the lie to charges of Ware county republicans that in 1932 Speaker Rivers sought to sell his weekly newspaper to the republican party and become that party's candidate for congress.

Deen Support.

Representative Deen, who was elected with the support of Speaker Rivers in 1932 and re-elected in 1934, declared that as early as 1930 he sought to get Speaker Rivers to become a candidate.

"I told Speaker Rivers then that he could be elected and I made the race myself only after he flatly refused," Representative Deen said. "The speaker told me in as strong words as he has at his command that he does not desire to go to congress."

He could easily have been elected in 1932 and I was among the many to urge him to make the race. He told me then as he tells you now that he wants to be governor of Georgia. And governor of Georgia he will be.

The Rivers campaign management was observing ladies' night and a number of prominent women democrats from over the state participated. Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, of Louisville, the state's democratic national committeewoman, presided over the session.

Mrs. Price reaffirmed her support of Speaker Rivers and predicted that he will have a smashing victory on September 9.

Support of Women.

"The foes of democracy in Georgia are doing everything within their power to keep this fine man from riding to a great victory," Mrs. Price said. "But the more false charges they hurl at him the more we women feel that he merits our support. He will get the votes of the women of Georgia. He will be overwhelmingly elected."

In his speech the Lakeland candidate, known far and wide as one of the greatest political campaigners the state has ever produced, "took the

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Women Pledge Full Support to Candidacy of Rivers

Shown here are two of Georgia's most distinguished women democratic leaders at the weekly round table discussion of E. D. Rivers supporters, held last night in the Ansley hotel. They are (left) Mrs. L. W. gloves off" on Fortson for the first time. In his previous speeches he made only slight references to the judge and in each praised him for his judicial record.

"On July 4th Charles D. Redwine was pulled out of the political hat by the Governor and put in the race as his candidate," Rivers declared. "Judge Fortson's attacks became so vicious until my friends urged me to reply to them. I declined to reply to these attacks and stated to the people of Georgia that so long as Judge Larsen and Judge Fortson were running on the same side of the issue that I am running on, that I would not reply in kind to these attacks."

Minority Vote Risk. "Judge Larsen, Judge Fortson and myself continued in the race. It soon became apparent that unless the field was consolidated there was a risk of a minority vote for Redwine bringing about his election under the county unit system. Democratic party leaders in Georgia charged with the responsibility of guiding the destinies of the party in this state, conducted a poll of the national delegates and electors appointed by President Roosevelt for Georgia. This poll revealed that I was overwhelmingly the choice as the candidate to carry the banner of democracy in the race for governor."

"When the taking of this poll was announced neither Judge Larsen nor myself knew anything about it or raised any objection to it. I was content to allow an expression to be had from the President's designated democratic leaders in this effort for success of the party in Georgia. The minute this movement to consolidate was launched Judge Fortson attacked the democratic party leaders in the state. These attacks caused several to point out that his campaign was in the hands of people aligned with Talmadge and interested not in the success of the pro-Roosevelt, anti-Talmadge ticket. That the reason Judge Fortson was objecting was because his people wanted the field to remain split in order to help the Talmadge-Redwine ticket win.

"After the decision of these democratic party leaders in Georgia was announced, there was only one of two things for Judge Larsen and Judge Fortson to do. Either submerge their personal ambitions at this time in the interest of the success of the democratic party in the state, by which they would demonstrate their sincerity in wanting to defeat Talmadgeism in Georgia; or to join hands with the Talmadge-republican-Liberty League-Wall Street crowd."

"Judge Larsen put his party ahead of his personal ambition and withdrew from the race. He deserves the eternal thanks of Georgia democracy for doing so. Upon his withdrawal practically 100 per cent of his supporters joined forces with me, and I am glad to see so many of them here tonight. On the contrary Judge Fortson refused to withdraw and continued making more bitter attacks upon me and Hon. Clark Howell, the national committeeman. I had expected to be bitterly assailed in the closing days of this campaign by the republicans, the Liberty League, Redwine and those openly asserting themselves to be against the President and the democratic party. Despite what many people and papers have said, about Judge Fortson's alignment, and despite bitter attacks upon me, I had hardly expected that his campaign management would openly align him with the republicans and allow him to be used as a tool to help in the desperate effort to elect Redwine."

Lined Up With Hearst. "However, last week he lined up with William Randolph Hearst, the bitter enemy of the President. We saw false Ware county republican affidavits furnished him by the Atlanta Georgian, Hearst's Georgia newspaper, in trying to stop the tide of sentiment that is steadily flowing to my candidacy. Who is William Randolph Hearst? He is a multi-millionaire. He admits being worth two hundred million dollars. He owns a chain of newspapers throughout the United States, of which the Atlanta Georgian is one. He is the bitterest enemy President Roosevelt has in the nation. He is bitter because he has to pay a high income tax on his huge fortune with the republicans and allow him to be used as a tool to help in the desperate effort to elect Redwine."

"If he sincerely wanted to get rid of Talmadge and Redwine, would he not be devoting his energies on the side of those of us who are fighting the battles of democracy? In lining up with William Randolph Hearst and his newspaper Judge Fortson not only is lining up with the bitterest enemy the President has, but is lining up with an organization that is noted for sensational, unethical and false chicanery. We remember how the same William Randolph Hearst paid $50,000 for some Mexican letters and tried to embroil the United States in a war with Mexico. We remember that he is still exiled from France, because of his tactics there. We remember how his organization was caught tapping news from the Associated Press during the World War. And we remember how he slandered the rural sections of Georgia in 1935 in that infamous survey designed to shake down the millionaire advertisers of the east. I read from Page 26 of this survey which I quote: 'Rural Georgia is virtually worthless as a market for branded merchandise.' I also read from Page 31 of his slanderous survey they undertook to prove that the white people in the rural sections of Georgia live in the worst kind of negro shacks. They slander the Confederacy by picturing a Confederate veteran with a flag of the Stars and Bars alongside a picture of a dilapidated negro shack."

"Would not a man who paid $50,000 for forged letters to try to embroil his country in war, who stands exiled from France because of his tactics, who tapped news from the Associated Press, who slandered Georgia and the Confederacy, that to vilify an individual, if that individual stands in the way of his plan to defeat President Roosevelt? He knows if he can take Governor Talmadge and Redwine by their red galluses as winners in Georgia, the President's southern home, and dangle them before the eyes of the voters in the doubtful states he has a chance to elect London, the republican candidate, president."

Fortson-Hearst Combine. "So we find Judge Fortson lined up with the bitterest enemy of President Roosevelt. Lined up with the chief backer of the republican candidate for president. Just as Charles Redwine is lined up with them. He, therefore, by his own actions ceases to become even a pretended Roosevelt candidate and he and Redwine become the Gold Dust twins of the Talmadge-Hearst-republican-Liberty League."

Wall Street wolves. This high-brow candidate has become the 'also I' with the other 'me too' candidate. Judge Fortson enjoyed immunity so long as he was fighting on the same side with me, but now that he has gone over on the other side he incurs the responsibility of defending Talmadgeism where he formerly only declined to assail it. He has disappointed a large number of people. While not supporting him, accepting his word that he was a high type candidate above such political chicanery. Why did the Hearst paper not have Redwine use these affidavits? They wanted to keep him out of it. They made Fortson the mudslinger to help elect Redwine."

"I do not have to defend my democracy in Georgia. You have heard what Congressman Deen has said in branding these accusations, false and ridiculous. You have seen for days what the true democrats of south Georgia who know these republicans in Ware county, and who know me, say. Had my democracy been at all questionable William Randolph Hearst would gladly pay $25,000 to see me elected governor. The very fact that he attacks me is ample evidence that he knows I am loyal to the President and the democratic party. The very source of his accusations and those sponsoring it, refutes itself."

"We Too—Also I" Twins. "But my friends this is only one of the few charges that you may expect from such unscrupulous sources. The Redwine-Fortson-Hearst-Dust, 'me too—also I' twins are not undertaking to present any claims of their own to become governor because they have none. They have no record of helping the people upon which to base such a claim. Therefore, they spend their time undertaking to tell what a bad fellow I am."

"I do not mean to be diverted from the issues of this campaign by these charges. It is only a few days until the end of the campaign. Since this alignment of Fortson with Hearst-Talmadge-Redwine my mail has tripled and visitors to my headquarters have doubled. The Georgia News Service poll shows we have jumped from 45 to 56 per cent. The people of Georgia are reading the old age pension news instead of the Atlanta Georgian. On September 9 we are going to win a smashing victory. We are going to lead Georgia to a better government by law instead of by bayonet. We are going to have free schoolbooks through the high school. We are going to have full length terms of school and pay the teachers adequately and promptly and give them retirement security in their old age. We are going to get the money to do these things by cooperating with President Roosevelt, who is taking the taxes out of the rich William Randolph Hearst and the Wall Street wolves."

BETRAYED BY NAZIS FOR TREASON

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—William Blessing, 42, was sentenced for treason today but how he betrayed Germany was a closely guarded secret. Information that the silk-hatted executioner's ax had swung was posted in a cold, official notice. No other information could be learned.

An announcement he was beheaded was posted to the city's billboard. It gave the reason merely, "for attempting treason."

CONGRESSMAN DEEN CITES RIVERS' CAREER

against Rivers. Deen beat Carswell, 20 to 1.

Deen Speech.

In his summation of Speaker Rivers, Congressman Deen said:

"In response to several telephone calls, telegrams and personal requests from my friends and neighbors in the eighth congressional district and from various parts of the state, I am appearing on this program of the Ed Rivers weekly round table conference with reference to recent charges which have been made by one of the other candidates for governor and against Ed Rivers; namely, that Ed Rivers indicated his willingness to run for congress in the eighth Georgia district in the general election of 1932 on the republican ticket; and the further charge that he was to have received $25,000 if he would make the race.

"This seems to be open season on charges and counter-charges, on misrepresentations and misstatements and on chicanery and demagoguery, and it is my purpose at this time to give you the benefit of the following facts with which I am personally acquainted and which I know to be the truth.

"I have known Ed Rivers intimately and personally for the past 25 years. I attended school at Young Harris College with Ed Rivers. His wife was also a student in that institution at the same time. Ed and I played basketball together, were members of the same literary debating society, and it was there that I learned to know him and to appreciate him as a school boy.

Closely Associated.

"In later years Ed moved to Lakeland, Ga., which is in the eighth congressional district and during the past 10 years I have been intimately and closely associated with him and identified with him as I have with any person in the entire state of Georgia.

"In 1928, when he made the first race for governor, I was living at Alma, Bacon county, within seven miles of where I was born and reared. I supported Ed Rivers' candidacy for governor in my newspaper. I made 22 speeches for him and saw hundreds of my friends and asked them to vote for him. My county gave him a large majority.

"In 1930 it was apparent that the citizens of the eighth congressional district were going to change their congressman and I got in my car and drove to Lakeland and urged and begged Ed Rivers to run for congress. He stated he was not interested in going to congress and that he could not and would not run under any circumstances. At that time I saw one of my friends and neighbors in Bacon county, the Hon. J. J. Brown, and asked him to run for congress, but he likewise declined. I also asked two other distinguished citizens of the eighth district to run for congress in 1930. Then a few weeks later I went back to see Ed Rivers and again urged him to make the race for congress, but he stated he was not interested in doing so. This was in 1930. I started to make the race myself, but later declined and did not do so.

Campaign Contribution.

"Ed Rivers ran for governor again in 1930 and I supported him in my newspaper editorially and made several speeches for him. At the close of the campaign in 1930 I made out a bill to him for $356 and 'marked' it paid, with love and affection from your friend and schoolmate" and signed my name. I have a copy of that statement in my files at Alma. This represented cash money which I took out of my earnings from my business and put it into what I thought was a worthy cause, in Ed Rivers' race for governor.

"Early in 1932 I drove down to Ed Rivers' home in Lakeland and told him that from the best information I could obtain from a great many people throughout the eighth congressional district, that the people were going to change their congressman, and I asked him if he would run or was interested in making the race. He replied that he did not have the ambition to run for congress and never had had and that he did not want to go to congress at any time. At this same time I conferred with three or four candidates for congress, among whom was the distinguished judge of the Waycross judicial circuit, Judge M. D. Dickerson, of Douglas. Again in September 1, 1932, in that issue of the Ed Rivers Weekly, published at Homerville, Ga., Ed Rivers carried another editorial, which he wrote with his own hand, endorsing me and predicting my overwhelming election. On September 14, 1932, the day of the election, the citizens of my district gave me an overwhelming majority in 17 of the 20 counties.

1932 Roosevelt Club.

"In the late fall of 1931, and in response to an invitation from some of the citizens of Homerville, Ga., I went to Homerville to help organize the first Roosevelt-for-President Club in the eighth district. When I got to Homerville I found Ed Rivers there. I didn't know that he was there. I was introduced and made a short talk in behalf of Franklin D.

Roosevelt, predicting and expressing the hope he would be nominated at the democratic convention in 1932. Ed Rivers was introduced and for five minutes he delivered one of the most interesting addresses to which I have ever listened in praise of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who he felt confident would be the nominee of the democratic party in 1932. That was the first Roosevelt-for-President Club organized in the eighth district. Following that meeting Ed Rivers and myself, along with other citizens of the district, co-operated and worked together in organizing Roosevelt Clubs in various counties of the district, including one in my own county of Bacon.

Rivers' Editorial.

In the Ed Rivers Weekly, issue of Thursday, October 20, 1932, there appeared a front page editorial, written by Ed Rivers, and I wish to quote the following excerpt from that edition:

"By making an appeal to the huge corporations of the country, the Ford Motor Company, the rubber companies and certain financial corporations, to force their employees to vote for Mr. Hoover in the coming election, the republican administration has clearly indicated that they are grasping at straws, and resorting to force and fear in an attempt to bring about a republican victory in November. It is entirely apparent that their policy of helping the big man and the large corporations in the hopes that the people will be eventually benefited, is to be continued. The narrow and false idea of the G. O. P. leaders that calls for a strict adherence to the gold standard with inflationary currency proves conclusively that the Wall Street financiers and the large bankers of the north are solidly behind the republican party in their effort to force through the re-election of Mr. Hoover.

"All signs point to a winter that must be faced by more hungry and destitute people than ever before in this country. Thousands will be without food and clothes and millions are without jobs. We are convinced that the democratic party and its principles and platform offer the only hope for these people and evidence is shown every day that millions of citizens in all sections of the United States are turning to the democratic party to place the country on a firm economical footing again."

"It should be remembered this was on October 20, 1932. There are many other editorials appearing in the Ed Rivers Weekly which show every opinion-minded person that Ed Rivers was not only loyal to the democratic party, the democratic platform, but are positive proof of his unswerving fidelity to party loyalty and party harmony.

Other Editorials.

"Having known Ed Rivers all these years and having been associated with him in almost every conceivable way, in politics, in business, in social affairs, on fishing trips, in school work and civic work, I think I know him as well or better than almost any other living man knows him. In the Ed Rivers weekly, issue of April 28, 1932, there appeared an editorial from which I quote the following excerpts:

"The ballot should not be bartered and bought; it is really a spiritual not a material thing, because it is freedom's disembodied soul. Compared with this human right property rights are dross. The ballot when obtained by chicanery, manipulation, fraud or money is as far from representative government and the will of the people as the zenith is from nadir.

"The ballot when subverted not only ceases to be the instrument of freedom and liberty, but becomes a sword of the tyrant, the oppressor, the gangster and the grafter.

"These words coming from the pen of Ed Rivers and before President Roosevelt was elected and elected in 1932 are words which are imperishable and which words ring in their significance with words contained in the inaugural address of that great humanitarian, statesman and genius, President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"May I call your attention to the policy of the Ed Rivers Weekly appearing on the editorial page and immediately under the mast head. I quote it as follows:

"This paper is dedicated to the cause of the under dog. It is a 'whip hand' of the common people. It lashes oppression, greed and graft wherever it finds it. It is not 'stayed' by finance, fear or favoritism. It chooses its own friends and makes its own enemies. It declares its own wars, dictates in its own truths and executes its own treaties. It is the keeper of its conscience.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I was present with Ed Rivers and one or two other friends when this policy was written and I recall how Ed Rivers stressed and emphasized the fact that there were no enemies within the policy of the great principles of democracy and how the ambition of his soul had always been to fight the battles of the common people as against entrenched greed, centralized wealth and special interests emanating from republican policies and principles of government. As Ed Rivers and myself, and two or three other friends talked over the above quoted policy of his paper, he almost forgot we were in a conference and made one of those great democratic speeches in which he repeated and repeated his love of democracy and the interest of the common people as against republicanism enunciated by John Adams and Hamilton who said that 'this government is for the rich and the well born and the able.'

Blackshear Speech.

"Following the primary election in September, 1932, and prior to the general election of November 1932, I was invited by some of the good citizens of Blackshear, Pierce county, Georgia, to appear on a program and stand on a platform on one street, along with Ed Rivers, in defense of the democratic nominees of that county as against some independent candidate. I had no personal feeling against any candidate in that county, or any other county, but I have never supported an independent candidate for any office at any time, and being true to the party of my father, and to my party, I appealed to the citizenry of that good county to stand by the nominees in the general election. I recall that Ed Rivers during the course of talk, plead with the citizens not to desert the nominees and stand with our 'grandfathers' fought our battle for democracy. At that point Ed Rivers picked up an old dilapidated and worn-out rifle which he said his grandfather, as a Confederate soldier used in the Civil War. I recall that he emphasized the only recollection Georgians of today had of the republican party was Sherman's march through Georgia from the mountains to the sea.

"Shortly after I went in office as the representative in congress from the eighth congressional district, on March 4, 1933, I requested the Post-office Department in Washington to have an inspector check each postmaster of the first, second and third-class offices in my district to ascertain whether or not there had been pernicious republican political activity or inefficiency. As a result of this investigation the department agreed to check out 17 republican postmasters and upon my recommendation the vacancies were filled with democrats.

Instructions to Postmasters.

"Believing in fair play and fair practice, I have told every postmaster that I have appointed, that when the democratic administration moves out, if and when it should, that all of them like loyal democrats, should turn in their resignations and not pose as half democrat and half republican.

"Although I had nothing personally against my friend and neighbor, the postmaster at Waycross, W. A. Seaman, he was one of the 17 who were replaced and whose place was filled by a democrat before the incumbent's term expired. As a result of my loyalty to the democratic principles of government and to the democratic administration, removal of these republican postmasters brought down coals of fire upon my head and immediately thereafter incubator republicans and postoffice republicans, together with some of their sympathizers, formed political volleys with which to supply my opposition burning stones, boiling water and scorching fumes. So that by 1934 this political volcano with its eruptions against me when I came up for re-election made Mt. Vesuvius look like a mole hill by the side of Stone Mountain.

"During all of this political warfare in 1933 and 1934, when the republican forces not only of my district, but of the whole country, together with a few disgruntled job-seekers in my district, were shouting at me from every angle, thousands of loyal democrats in my district were standing solidly by me, upholding my hands and giving me their whole-hearted and loyal co-operation. Chief among this long list of loyal democrats in my district was none other than Ed Rivers. On every hand, at every turn of the road, in every county and in every community where I was removing republican postmasters, Ed Rivers was standing solidly by me and at no time did he on any occasion ever falter or get shaky in the knees. Because of this fight which I made for democratic principles—that is democratic postmasters and democratic officeholders in a democratic administration, and because of the unswerving loyalty of Ed Rivers to me, and to my district stood by me in this fight. Unwarranted criticism and damaging statements, false charges, willful and malicious rumors and false reports have from time to time been made against me, against Ed Rivers and against others.

Carswell Vote.

"In 1930 Dr. H. J. Carswell, of Waycross, was a candidate for congress on the republican ticket in the general election in November. He opposed W. C. Leavelle, who carried every county over Dr. Carswell. Although the total vote received by Dr. Carswell in the respective 20 counties of the eighth district did not exceed 12,000, Lamford received more than 20,000 votes.

"In 1932 after I was nominated in the primary with an overwhelming majority from 17 of the 20 counties Dr. Carswell again ran for congress on the republican ticket in the November general election. In the 20 counties I received 20,021 votes and Dr. Carswell received 912. With the poor showing made by Dr. Carswell in 1930 and in 1932, when he ran for congress both years on the republican ticket and received less than 1,000 votes in 1932, this record of republican votes received by him evidently would have been a poor inducement for Ed Rivers to have said 'me too.' This record of representative votes would likewise not have been very tempting to the national republican party to have spent $25,000 for 1,000 votes, or an average price of $25 per vote. Of course I know that the republican party in its desperation at all times is willing to pay a good price to win an election, but on this basis and at this rate of $25,000 for less than 1,000 votes, in order to win 15,000,000 votes the approximate number necessary to win a national election, the cost at $25 per vote would therefore be $375,000,000 in order to capture the membership in the house of representatives. On this same basis and at this same rate, if they were to undertake to capture the senate of the United States, and they are, and the presidency, the cost would be $1,025,000,000.

Republican Desperation.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I positively know that the republican party is desperate in its efforts to capture Georgia, the only state in the United States which has never gone republican, and I know every effort is being made by the republicans in my congressional district to leave me at home and to send another man in my place who will antagonize the President and the congress and will play into the hands of the republican party and into the hands of rabid, rabid reactionary democrats.

"A democrat and a republican were recently discussing the present administration. The republican said to the democrat: 'Every letter in the alphabet has been used for some government agency or stands for some government relief.' The democrat replied to him by saying: 'My republican friend you are mistaken. It is true that a great many letters of the alphabet stand for government agencies and government relief, but there are three letters in the alphabet which do not stand for any of these agencies or anything else worth while and they are G. O. P.

"Ladies and gentlemen and friends of democracy, not only in my congressional district but in Georgia, I have no alignment with any candidate for any office. I am not here to tell any person how to vote. That is the last thing that I would do. I am running my own race in my own district and trying to look after the problems and affairs of the people of my district while I campaign. The sole purpose of my appearance on this program is to tell you of my close relationship, friendship and association with Ed Rivers during all these years and that I have always, on all occasions, found him to be a loyal friend, a true Georgian, a good neighbor and a loyal democrat, a good lawyer and an accomplished scholar. Since he lives in my district, and since he is a democrat, and since I am an individual, I think I have a right as an individual to appear here in friendship with this large number of his friends from all parts of the state, and to express my open and avowed loyalty to him while he fights the battle for democracy and good government in our state.

"Right is right, since God is God, 'And right the day must win. To doubt would be cowardice, To falter would be sin.'

TALMADGEITE ASSAILS
SIGN ON RUSSELL CLUB

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A protest against the Russell-Senator Chatham county headquarters hanging a sign above its front door reading "democratic headquarters" was entered today by E. Ormond Hunter, member of the board of regents and a supporter of Governor Talmadge.

"As a supporter of our President, it seems to me the use of the sign 'democratic headquarters' is unfair, and makes the interest of the President subservient to the interest of a candidate who is running for the democratic nomination for the senate in the democratic primary to be held on September 8."

GEORGE WHITMAN LAUDS ETHERIDGE

Former Opponent Takes Stump for Candidate for Judge.

George P. Whitman, prominent attorney who, four years ago, opposed Paul S. Etheridge in a three-cornered race for nomination to one of the judicial posts of Fulton county superior court, last night took the stump in Etheridge's behalf, commending him to voters and defended Etheridge against "inferences, insinuations and innuendoes."

"It is a pleasure to bear testimony to the qualifications of Mr. Etheridge and to tell the voters of this county what I think about his fitness for the office," Whitman asserted.

"I believe I know the character of Mr. Etheridge. In the many years of our acquaintance in the legal profession and in other relationships, I have had adequate opportunity, I believe, to discover those inner springs of conduct which give foundation and reveal character, and these springs I have found to be pure."

"In my judgment, the services of Mr. Etheridge as judge would be characterized by integrity of purpose, sound and impartial judgment, and conscientious conviction, in the discharge of the duties and responsibilities of the office."

"Four years ago, Mr. Etheridge offered as a candidate for the judgeship he is now seeking. In that race he received practically 10,000 votes."

FONDA WILL WED
MRS. G. T. BROKAW*Parents of Socialite Announce Engagement to Screen, Stage Star.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A European acquaintanceship between socially prominent Mrs. George T. Brokaw and Henry Fonda, stage and screen star, has resulted in their engagement, it became known today.

Mrs. Brokaw, whose late husband was a lawyer and well-known sportsman, met the young actor in London in June.

They became engaged in Germany while he was working on a film production. Plans for their wedding have not been announced, but Mrs. Brokaw will sail for home next Monday.

Fonda, a native of Grand Island, Neb., studied journalism at the University of Minnesota before deciding to become an actor.

His first marriage—to Margaret Sullivan, the film actress—was ended by divorce.

Mrs. Brokaw is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Seymour, who announced her engagement from their summer home at Mount Kisco, N.Y.

FIVE MINERS KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN SHAFT

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Five miners were killed today in an explosion at the Sullivan Trail Coal Company's West Pittston shaft.

Mine Inspector Edward Curtis sent word of the fatalities to the surface several hours after a rescue squad went down to batter its way through tons of rock and coal that entombed the workers. All the bodies were recovered.

John Smith, 35, Old Forge, who was buried and Ted Malanic, 27, of Scranton, a rescuer overcome by fumes, were taken to a hospital.

Three other rescuers were affected but were able to remain at the mine.

The explosion occurred about 200 feet below the surface.

JOHN MERCER KILLED AT HOME IN LOUISIANA

John Mercer, cousin of Mercer Poole, of Atlanta, and a former student at Georgia Tech, was killed Sunday while diving into a swimming pool on his family's plantation at Taylorsville, La.

A native of Shreveport, La., he was well known in Atlanta.

U. S. LAWYERS FAVOR
EXTENSION OF CONTROL*Ransom Urges Non-Political Courts in Address Before Convention.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The American Bar Association by an overwhelming vote today adopted a new constitution designed to liberalize the organization by extending its control among the bar associations of the 48 states.

Of approximately 1,000 members attending the opening day's session of the fifty-ninth annual meeting, only a score cast negative votes on the motion for adoption offered by Jefferson P. Chandler, of Los Angeles, chairman of a special committee on reorganization of the bar.

President William E. Ransom, of the association, asserted "impartial, independent, non-partisan and non-political courts" should be preserved in the United States.

In an address before the American Bar Association convention, Ransom said this issue "above all others is stirring the consciousness of the American people and should command the militant support of all lawyers."

The courts, he declared, should be made up of "courageous judges controlled by their own conscience."

Be Secure in Tenure.

"Judges should be selected for their qualifications, and should be secure in tenure. They should owe no fealty to political programs or preconceived views, he added, and the public would, as a result, benefit by their 'deliberate detached and disinterested judgment.'"

"If the courts are to be reconstituted to serve preconceived theories, if judges are to be chosen to reward partisan or factional services and are to remain active in partisan or factional contests, then constitutional safeguards become of no avail and the very keystone of the American form of government is in danger."

Loss Feature.

"We shall lose the distinctive feature of our institutions if the courts are denied the right and duty to speak of fundamental questions or are made subservient to the demands of transient political control."

"Here is an issue we should nail to the masthead, and put and keep in first place."

GROUND IS BROKEN
FOR NEW SCHOOL*WPA Workmen Prepare for Project in Million-Dollar Program.

WPA workers yesterday began breaking ground at the E. L. Connally school, included in Atlanta's million-dollar school construction program. A bond issue last September provided for the city's share of $275,000 for the program.

A new structure will be erected at the E. L. Connally school to supplant the portables now in use.

Construction of a new auditorium at the Faith school now awaits authorization, as does work on other projects in the school building program.

The Connally school building, when completed, will cost about $31,874.50. The city will provide $14,768.25 of the total cost and the WPA the other $17,106.25. Total cost of the Faith school project will be around $36,210 while the WPA supplies $26,572.

Evils of Knock-Knockery Caught by Camera

What's your knock-out? Here is the errant Mr. Crane.

Knock-Knock Editor, Sad to Relate,
Is Back, and Up to His Old Tricks*BULLETIN—The Constitution knock knock editor was discovered at 9:15 o'clock yesterday morning after a frenzied (don't take that seriously) search of 36 hours. He was found by John, the janitor, as he was sweeping out the office at that quiet, quiet hour. The K-K editor was buried beneath a pile of several thousand knock knock letters and was excavated from the mound on the fifth sweep of the broom. John waited for the staff to arrive and asked, "What is that thing?"

He was told he had discovered the knock knock editor, who was then chained to his typewriter and told to sit quietly and write his knock knock story for the day.

By CHARLES (LIVINGSTON) CRANE.

Well, pal, that little bit of liberty was great while it lasted. After your knock knock editor tricked his way out of his padded cell here at The Constitution Saturday night he had a glorious evening sinking about through the underground passages of the city.

Only once did he poke his head up to the sidewalk level. And what greeted him then?

A man was standing on the corner with a thick sheet of paper in his hand. The papers looked like handbills. They weren't.

He poked one of them at your knock knock editor and yelled: "Here, y'are! We want a hundred classic knock knock for only a dime."

Healthy Swing.

You can imagine how your K-K editor scampered back to his eerie hiding place. But not until after he took a healthy swing at the hawk.

And during that few minutes of an attempt to mingle with normal society, several people who happened to be passing looked down their noses at your knock knock editor and murmured coldly: "There's that man!"

"Here, y'are! We want a hundred classic knock knock for only a dime."

He couldn't Trosky out for a sandwich without the voice of the populace rising against us. Alfonso someone will turn up who Wilhelm us out, though.

Sunday night we thought the little game of hide-and-seek with the legion of searches was up. We peeked out from under the Forsyth viaduct and saw four or five hundred men milling about in khaki uniforms. They spread from the viaduct to The Constitution building.

"So the boys have called out the army to look for us," we hissed.

Not Bad, Not Bad.

Then some inebriated carouser lurched up and yelled, "Where is he?" "Talking about us," we said.

"Where is who?" one of the several hundred uniformed men asked.

"Governor Talmadge," the drunk replied. "Isn't he going to make a speech here?"

We found out later the uniformed legion was only a bunch of CMTC boys waiting for trucks to carry them back to camp and the governor wasn't speaking after all, and the army wasn't after us.

The shadowy bulk of The Constitution building loomed up before us in the darkness we began to have a homesick feeling for our old padded cell filled with its thousands of knock knock letters and the battered old typewriter.

Everything got hazy and our ears were filled with a drumming sound of knock knock knock knock knock. (We could finish out the column like that, but we have to give those prize-winning knock knockers for the day.)

NEGRO FLEES ROOM
AT POLICE STATION*Boy, 16, Escapes Through Window While Awaiting Questioning.

A 16-year-old negro boy escaped through a window from a grilling room at police headquarters yesterday afternoon while his alleged accomplice was being questioned in the room by detectives and the victim of a theft.

The fugitive, Henry Rabun, was being held under five indictments for auto theft and in connection with a recent series of burglaries in the North Side section. He and Wesley Barnes allegedly stole an automobile from A. B. Corrigor, of New York city, on West Peachtree street near Sixth street, about two months ago. Although the car was recovered soon after the theft, some of Corrigor's other property of Corrigor was missing, police said.

While Corrigor and Detective Paul Jones were questioning Barnes yesterday afternoon, Rabun was placed in another grilling room.

When Detective Jones returned, he found Rabun had escaped through a screened window. The screen was not found.

Rabun is one of five arrested recently in connection with North Side burglaries, one of which was out of a dress shop on Highland avenue.

CITY LABORER INJURED IN SEWER DITCH CAVE-IN

Joe Smith, 27, negro laborer for the city construction department, was buried when the walls of a sewer ditch caved in at Piedmont avenue near Clover lane yesterday.

After being rescued by his fellow workers he was treated at Grady hospital for bruises and for a cut on the head. Employees working under the direction of B. B. West, foreman, uncovered Smith's head, allowing him to breathe until the rest of his body was dug out.

NINE SOVIET 'PLOTTERS'
EXECUTED BY JAPANESE*Russian Embassy in Tokyo
Not Aware of Deaths; Denies Communist Move.

TOKYO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Japanese military forces announced tonight the execution of nine members of a "secret soviet shock battalion" near Hailar, Manchoukuo, close to the Siberian border.

Disclosure of the deaths came from the Japanese general army headquarters in Hailar, Manchoukuo.

The executions were carried out Friday, and at the same time 28 others, said also to have been citizens of the U. S. S. R., were sentenced to prison for terms ranging from 5 to 20 years.

The condemned Russians, it was said in a Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch, were "remnants of a secret delegation which the soviets sent to Manchoukuo in 1924 and 1925, charged with supervising the Three Rivers district."

The district was described as a colony some 75 miles north of Hailar near the Argun river which roughly marks the boundary between Soviet Siberia and Manchoukuo.

Pose As White Russians.

Posing as white Russians, the Domei dispatch said, the members of the group began organization of a shock battalion in 1924 and enrolled 300 members.

The Three Rivers colony, however, was considered by observers as a white Russian community and hostile to the communist government in Moscow.

The dispatch continued: "The shock battalion daringly planned to attack the Japanese-Manchoukuo public offices, to commit plunder, incendiarism and other violence and to facilitate the operations of the soviet army."

(For several years there have been more or less frequent reports of fighting along the borders of Siberia, outer Mongolia and Manchoukuo between supporters of the three governments over the loosely established boundary lines.)

Conviction Confirmed.

(Hailar is near the point where all three boundaries converge. Recently Russia and Japan agreed to the formation of a commission to determine the boundaries of outer Mongolia, an independent republic closely allied with the U. S. S. R., and Manchoukuo, supported by Japan.)

Conviction of the 37 prisoners was affirmed by a special court sitting at Hailar.

More than 300 persons were reported involved in the alleged conspiracy with 20 or more leaders keeping in touch with soviet authorities across the border.

During Sino-Soviet hostilities in 1929 the communist army crossed the border from Russia and raided the Three Rivers colony, carrying off scores of prisoners.

In Tokyo, the soviet embassy said it had no knowledge of the executions and denied there were communist Russian activities in the Hailar area.

THIRD SUIT FILED
FOR BACK PENSION*$2,478 Sought From Police
Board by Wife of Late Policeman.

A third suit against the police pension fund board of trustees for back pension and continuance of payments at the old rates prior to 1933 was filed in Fulton superior court yesterday.

Mrs. James A. Hollis, whose policeman husband died June 8, 1930, directed the most recent mandamus action against the board, claiming that the legislative act of February, 1933, which regulated Atlanta police pensions, was unconstitutional in that it impaired a contract made by her husband with the pension board.

She sued for $2,478 back pension. Mrs. Hollis alleged that her husband contributed 1 per cent of his salary to the pension fund and that after he died she received $90 per month until February, 1933, when the sum was cut to $40 per month under the legislative act. The widow asked that the pension be continued at $90 a month, on the grounds that the legislature can not legally pass a law that impairs a contract.

Former Chief of Police James L. Beavers and Mrs. E. L. Jett, whose husband was a policeman, have already filed similar suits. Judge Hugh M. Dorsey set September 5 as the date for hearing of Mrs. Hollis' suit. The other two were set for September 4. Polle and Fraser filed the latest action.

NAZIS IN FRANCE IN NEUTRALITY PACT

came (for the criticism) will now be able to call certain of its ministers to order and bind its supporters to fulfill in letter the spirit of this agreement.

Extend Military Service. Meanwhile the German government issued a decree extending compulsory military service to two years from one year.

A private informant said "Russian militarism" was the reason for the step.

Commenting today on the German decree doubling the length of compulsory military service in the Reich, Gabriel Cudenet in the Petit Journal of Paris, said: "If our information is exact, Hitler is announcing his formal intention of organizing a 'preventative war' against Russia."

London official circles, distinctly happy over the German arms embargo, saw a salutary effect on the forthcoming peace talks at Locarno.

Said a spokesman: "This is certainly not a blue Monday in Europe."

Official circles were agreed that Germany's action, coupled with Great Britain's "closing" of the Gibe-Zerion incident, suggested a new sailing for the non-intervention pact.

Only Portugal Silent. From Moscow came word that the Soviet union would have arms shipments to Spain if Germany, Italy and Portugal would sign similar agreements.

Of these nations only Portugal has yet officially to declare her stand on neutrality. Germany has an arms embargo and Italy has declared she would also declare one if other powers would do likewise.

British warships Sunday night obtained quick apology from a Spanish naval commander whose vessel halted and whose men searched the British Gibe-Zerion. British officials yesterday said they considered the affair a "closed incident."

In world capitals, meanwhile, anxiety was given little outward expression.

In Vienna, marching of storm troops led to reports that the government feared a putsch by Austrian fascists of the nazis who had been active in the signing of the Austrian-German accord. It was explained, however, that the militiamen were merely out for exercises.

In Washington the Spanish government formally obligated itself to reimburse American owners of property which may be seized during the Spanish civil war.

FRANCE BREATHES EASIER AS NEUTRALITY HOPE GROWS. PARIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—French officials tonight tonight to bind European powers into a neutrality pact in the Spanish civil war with warnings coming from French sources that the nazis hatred for communism still periled the peace of Europe.

Officials nonetheless were jubilant over Germany's declaration of an immediate arms embargo which diplomatic circles asserted had ended much of the war talk in European chancelleries.

As indications that Europe was determined to continue fighting against the spreading of the Spanish strife beyond the Iberian peninsula, the French pointed to Britain's attitude in the Gibe-Zerion incident and Germany's reply to the neutrality proposal before having received demanded apologies for the Kamerun incident.

British officials today termed a "closed incident" the search of the English vessel Gibe-Zerion by a Spanish government warship whose commander apologized to the master of a British man-of-war.

The Madrid government, which expressed satisfaction over the pacific settlement of the incident, had not, however, tonight replied to the German demand for apologies for the similar reported action involving the German vessel Kamerun.

Can't Stop Volunteers. The conservative newspaper Le Temps said the German reply eased the task of chancelleries "to end all immediate menace to the peace of Europe" but warned "the peril still remains in the unchangeable opposition of German nationalism to communism."

"It is against this danger that all peoples must guard themselves if they don't wish to be drawn into a war which, transposed into Europe, would be a war of extermination similar to that now developing in Spain."

French officials tonight gave no indication of changing their earlier attitude that French volunteers in the service of the Madrid government must themselves "run the risks of war."

It was reported that five French nationalists in the Spanish loyalist ranks, had been executed by fascist rebels.

A government spokesman commented:

"The Madrid government, which expressed satisfaction over the pacific settlement of the incident, had not, however, tonight replied to the German demand for apologies for the similar reported action involving the German vessel Kamerun."

Heat Overcomes Camel In Traveling Circus

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The heat here, moving toward 100 degrees for the 13th consecutive day, proved too much today even for a camel, the animal used as a beast of burden on the blazing deserts of Africa and Asia.

A two-humped camel, owned by a circus, collapsed from heat exhaustion as the circus train left for Springfield, Mo. The humane society took the animal in charge.

ing on this report said France had been unable to prevent leftist "adventurers" from enlisting with the socialist Madrid forces, but that the government could not interfere if harm befell such volunteers.

SPAIN PLEDGES PAYMENT FOR SEIZED INDUSTRIES. WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Spanish government today formally obligated itself to reimburse American property holders whose property may be seized during the civil strife in Spain.

In a note replying tentatively to American representations on the subject, the Madrid foreign office advised the American embassy there as follows:

"The government of the republic holds as an unalterable position not to take possession of any property, movable or immovable, belonging to Spanish citizens or foreigners, except naturally in cases of force majeure, and especially when it is a question of the safety of the state or public interest so requires."

In such a case it will pay the value after a just and equitable appraisal and if possible—and this is the chief desire of the government—in agreement with the interested parties or their legal representatives.

Plants of the Ford Motor Company and General Motors Corporation at Barcelona were taken over several weeks ago by forces aligned with the Spanish government. They were the only known seizures of American property except several private automobiles which were confiscated.

Shortly after official confirmation was received here concerning the seizure of the motor plants at Barcelona, the American government dispatched a note to authorities in Madrid warning that the government would be held strictly accountable for any American property taken over.

ROME IS SILENT ON FURTHER STEPS. ROME, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Fascist officials, commenting on Germany's agreement to put a Spanish arms embargo in effect, said they would not take any further steps.

One official said Italy had not yet heard from other arms-producing countries which the nazis take similar action, and therefore does not consider the accord as yet effective.

RUSSIA WILL EMBARGO SHIPMENTS TO SPAIN. MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff and the French charge d'affaires, M. Payard, today exchanged notes by which the Soviet union agreed to halt arms shipments to Spain provided Germany, Italy and Portugal do likewise.

The agreement provided:

1. Prohibition of direct or indirect exports or re-exports of munitions, war materials, airplanes, or airplane parts to Spain or Spanish territory.
2. Prohibition of such contracts already signed.
3. Exchange of information by neutral powers.

The agreement will not be effective until the other powers sign it.

LONDON IS HAPPY OVER TURN OF EVENTS. LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A German decision to embargo arms shipments to Spain cheered the British today.

At the same time, informed sources said his majesty's government was disposed to regard the incident of Spanish warship interference with a British freighter in the Straits of Gibraltar as "closed," in view of an apology from the commander of the Madrid government cruiser which stopped the ship.

Germany's action, although not a matter of official record here as yet, was considered encouraging news in informed London quarters. Linked with the Spanish commander's apology it was felt it made any further British protest to Madrid unlikely.

Quick action by powerful units of the British navy settled the straits incident, although British men-of-war were ordered to see that there is no further interference with British shipping on the high seas.

KAMERUN INCIDENT IS NOT YET CLOSED. BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Nazi Germany agreed today to declare an immediate embargo on arms shipments to Spain.

However, the Wilhelmstrasse pointed out the day, which also embraced airplane shipments, did not settle Germany's dispute with the socialist Madrid government.

In deciding on its sudden action, Germany made an important concession in not waiting for the release of a German airplane confiscated at Madrid.

But the semi-official announcement of the embargo said specifically: "Naturally, this does not affect the demand addressed to Spain for the airplane's release."

Similarly, the incident created by the Spanish government's search of the German merchantman, Kamerun, in the absence of a "satisfactory" reply from Spain, remained where it was before the embargo was declared.

Nevertheless, the embargo created a favorable impression in diplomatic circles, where it was viewed as a construction step toward easing a tense situation—providing no quarrel arises later over how the embargo is being carried out.

PRESIDENT OF SPAIN PREPARES FOR FLIGHT

spare from the more direct defense of Madrid who could be sent against the rebel forces reported pushing forward from the western sections.

From directly south of Madrid, rebel forces of the northern army were driving steadily forward toward Toledo in a determined attempt to reach their comrades last reported holding out in the besieged Alcazar garrison in Toledo against government forces theoretically holding the city.

Madrid, tonight, was a city at war; but its people were an appearance of unconcern.

Banks, offices, shops, thoroughfares and bypaths were guarded by government military forces in the streets of those believed to be rebel supporters continued.

Well-informed sources told of night killings, fascists condemned by perfumery secret tribunals composed largely of anarchists. The government admitted the rebels had bombed Madrid, the Gibe-Zerion yesterday, but said that the damage was slight.

Executions Numerous. A squadron of government planes pursued the rebel fliers, who sped back to Seville after dropping several bombs.

Authorities also said 400 rebels had been burned alive when Simancas barracks at Gijon were fired Saturday.

They said rebel troops, headed by Moors, had attempted to break through government forces surrounding Cordoba, in the south, but had been forced back. The loyalists reported they summarily executed all Moors and rebel legionnaires captured and had seized large quantities of guns and ammunition.

The populace, despite the ominous situation expressed by government officials, and the patrols of omnipresent militiamen, went to the movies and loafed about in cafes. Lovers thronged the streets and conveyances were crowded.

The loyalist forces at Corceilla battled tonight to stop off the rebel drive on Madrid from the Guadalquivir mountains as near-by peasants skidded about on the hillside's grassy slopes on skis.

Peasants Aid Reds. Artillery of both sides blasted away at each other throughout the night on the front between Tablada and Corceilla.

The rebels had been clamped into a wedge-like formation, Colonel Jose Asensio said, with Leon pass, 52 miles north of Madrid, as the apex, and the Tablada sanatorium as the base. As shells shrieked throughout the night at enemy batteries, Colonel Asensio said the rebels' resistance "broken," could not hold out much longer.

"It is a question of time," he said, until that entire range (Alto de Leon pass) will be in our hands.

The colonel meanwhile set up field telephone communication between the government advance forces and the main body of troops behind them.

The peasants, who could be seen unconcernedly disposing themselves on skis about the hillsides, once in a while stopped their fun to harass advance bodies of rebel forces.

It was reported at government field headquarters that the loyalist peasants blew up the Balsas power plant supplying light and power for La Granja, a serious handicap to fascist forces.

REBEL PLANES DROP MANY BOMBS ON IRUN. HENDAYE, France, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Fascist rebel planes tonight dropped bombs on the San Sebastian-Irun sector while Moorish native troops stood by for an expected land assault on the besieged city.

This was taken as an indication the Rebel General Emilio Mola intended to establish a daily routine in the sector of air and sea bombardments followed by infantry attacks in a determined effort to capture the cities battered by rebel shells for weeks.

More than 100 inhabitants were killed in today's shelling of Irun, it was reported by supporters of the Spanish government's "popular front," but confirmation was lacking as the French frontier remained tightly closed.

General Mola tonight received a wireless from the rebel commander at Oviedo that "unless you send promised aid I will be forced to surrender."

Detonations Are Louder. At Oviedo it was reported government planes rained bombs on the city after the rebel defenders had spurned an ultimatum to surrender or be bombed.

The rebels were dispersed and forced to flee," the government said, declaring a number of prisoners and field pieces had been captured from the rebels.

The government also announced summary executions of Moorish Spaniards.

Reports from rebel headquarters at Pamplona today confirmed the death in action of Colonel Ortiz de Zariate, rebel commander-in-chief at Oyarzun.

On the French side of the frontier rumors were current that peace negotiations were being sought by Count Romanones, former premier and one of the richest men in Spain. He was released Sunday by government forces in San Sebastian and crossed immediately to Dax, France.

REBELS KILL 5 FRENCHMEN CAUGHT WITH LOYALISTS. PAMPLONA, Spain, Aug. 24.—Spanish rebel officers reported today execution of five Frenchmen fighting for the loyalist government and warned that other French nationalists who join in the civil war may expect the same fate.

Accusing France of aiding the Spanish socialist regime, the fascist officers asserted the five French volunteers were captured in a battle near Oyarzun and put to death.

Claims of victories and the charges against France alternated in a flood of communiques issuing from insurgent headquarters here.

Despite French denials, rebels insisted that a fleet of 15 French planes bombed Navarrel and that other war craft crossed the Pyrenees on the northern border and bombed Oyarzun and Tolosa.

independence, although Germany pledged to respect Austrian sovereignty.

The tangled inter-play of personalities and causes was not simplified by monarchist activities.

After the death of Dollfus, Schuschnigg became chancellor and ousted Major Fey because of his opposition to the Prince Starhemberg, who later was himself thrown out of the cabinet by Schuschnigg.

Fey, meanwhile, has advocated the return of the Hapsburgs to power in the person of Prince Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne.

The Heimwehr, it was pointed out, has not been well paid in recent months, in fact ever since Prince Starhemberg was shorn of his powers by Schuschnigg, and it was said in some quarters that with Fey in command of the private army it could become a powerful instrument in the hands of the restorationists.

(Former Empress Zita, mother of Otto, was received during the day in a private audience by Pope Pius XI at Castel Gandolfo, Italy, and it was recalled by Vatican prelates that the restoration of the Catholic dynasty to Austria always has been supported at the Vatican.)

(Baron Friedrich Von Wiesner, Austrian legitimist leader, from Bad-Gastein, Salzburg, Austria, interpreted the audience as another indication of the friendship between the Vatican and the Hapsburg house.)

(He stressed that although the audience was the third the pope has given the former empress, it had no political significance.)

given the rank of lieutenant colonel (retired) for life.

He was active in Atlanta's religious organizations as well as its social and business activities. As a member and an officer of the First Presbyterian church he served as treasurer of the church, chairman of the board of trustees and as an elder.

Came Here With Capital. He was born near Outhbert, in Randolph county. He moved with his family to Milledgeville, then the state capital, when his father was elected secretary of state about 10 years before the War Between the States.

When the capital was moved to Atlanta shortly after the war, the family came to this city, and Colonel Harrison made the city his permanent home.

He was married in 1874 to Miss Lucie Minerva Hayden, daughter of the late Judge Julius A. Hayden and granddaughter of the late Judge Reuben Cone. On April 20, 1922, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, entertaining many friends at a brilliant social affair where they received congratulations from leading citizens of Atlanta and the state.

Surviving Colonel Harrison are one son, George W. Harrison Jr., and one sister, Mrs. Nora Harrison Clarke.

MILK PRICE WAR PLOT DISCLOSED BY WOMAN

reported. Policemen who found notes in the auto, said they read: "Warning—raise milk prices."

C. A. Bowden, operator of a Rawson street grocery, through whose window a similar note had been hurled earlier, said he had been selling milk at 12 cents a quart and laid the warning to a refusal to raise prices.

The woman's confession came as a climax to a series of acts of terrorism, patrols are being made by a special police squad having orders to "shoot to kill" anyone caught in the act of tossing a bomb. A bomb wrecked the interior of a grocery on Primrose street early Saturday, and several weeks ago a bomb wrecked the quarters of a producers' confederation on Whitehall street.

Scientists explain that the basis of all science rests on the orderliness of the universe—the fact that a given cause always produces the same result.

FEDERAL AID ASKED FOR CITRUS INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(P)—Senators Hill and Lottin, of Florida, asked President Roosevelt today to insure the citrus industry against a surplus crop this season by authorizing government purchases of fruit in large quantities for distribution to needy persons in western drought areas.

In a letter to the President the Florida senators said they were joined in the suggestion by Senators Sheppard and Connally, of Texas. They said the danger of a surplus crop existed in both states.

The letter named no specific amount, but requested "an allocation of several million dollars" from the appropriation for the purchase of surplus commodities through the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Oregon has what is believed to be the world's steepest standard-gauge railroad, which hauls logdown a grade ranging from 28 to 79 per cent.

SCOTT CANDLER LEADS
VETERANS' F.D.R. DRIVEDecatur Leader Named for Georgia by Democratic National Committee.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Scott Candler, Georgia attorney, former department commander for the state of Georgia of the American Legion and Decatur city official and civic leader, was appointed today as chairman for Georgia of the veterans' advisory committee of the democratic national campaign committee, it was announced by Louis Johnson, chairman of the party's national veterans' advisory committee.

Emory Bass, prominent Lowndes county resident and also a former state commander of the American Legion, was appointed vice chairman. Bass is commander of the Valdosta Legion post, and is a graduate of Emory University. Both men are democratic electors.

Plans call for the perfection of a state-wide veterans' organization with units in each county headed by county chairmen and with associate women chairmen, Mr. Johnson said. Selection of the county leaders will proceed at once. A woman chairman for the state also will be named.

Mr. Candler, who is chairman of the Decatur city commission and an officer mayor, is commander of Decatur's Harold Byrd Post No. 66, of the American Legion, and is chairman of the committee raising funds to further the campaign of Quimby McClinton for election as national commander of the Legion.

Mr. Candler is a native of Decatur, is the son of Murphy Candler, distinguished Georgian, and achieved a splendid war record. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the first officers' training camp at Fort McPherson and was sent overseas with the 82nd Division.

He saw service in the Toul sector and in the offensives of St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne. He was promoted to a first lieutenant in January of 1918 and during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in November of the same year was commissioned a captain.

For many years he has taken an active part in the affairs of the American Legion.

Mr. Bass likewise has achieved an enviable record in supporting measures beneficial to ex-service men and is known throughout the state as a leader in Legion activities.

2 PRIMARIES TO TEST
NEW DEAL AS ISSUE

trary. Former Governor Wilbur N. Brewer, opposing Cooney for the republican senatorial nomination, called the statement a "confession of defeat."

California's Primary.

In a third primary today, California will test the strength of the Townsend organization in contests for congressional seats. Otherwise there was little national interest in the races.

Landon, in his Chautauqua speech, said the "widespread use of the machinery of the federal government to maintain the present administration in power" represented a "danger" to American education.

"I believe that our educators should make a severe and honest effort to see that our youth is given a background of our heritage and tradition—a fundamental understanding of the form and philosophy of our government," Landon said.

Warning against federal "propaganda," Landon said "when money is forcibly taken by government from citizens and used to tear down those things most precious to our people, we see propaganda in its most shabby form."

PEOPLE WANTED CHANGE, SAYS BLANTON CONQUEROR

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 24.—(P)—A stocky, soft-spoken rural judge who stepped out of county politics to administer a 15,000-vote majority defeat to the congressional veteran, Representative Thomas L. Blanton, remarked today:

"I believe the people were ready for a change. Friends long referred to him as 'the watchdog of the treasury'—was silent in defeat. Ardent supporters, however, attributed the victory of his opponent, County Judge Clyde Garrett, to 'local matters.'"

In Saturday's runoff primary vote for the democratic nomination, usually tantamount to election in Texas, Garrett polled 23,326 votes to 18,327 for Blanton. The veteran congressman had trailed his opponent in the first primary several weeks ago.

"The main thing that elected me and defeated Blanton was that the people were not getting the proper representation," Garrett said.

Blanton, for 20 years a congressman, lost his home county by almost 5,000 votes in the election.

HARRISON HAS FIGHT TO BEAT CONNER, BILBO

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 24.—(P)—Mississippi senatorial candidates made their final appeals today to voters who will cast ballots in tomorrow's democratic primary. Nomination in the primary is equivalent to election.

Pat Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee and close adviser of President Roosevelt, is opposed by former Governor Senator Conner.

Conner has the support of Harrison's colleague, Senator Theo G. Bilbo.

Bilbo and Harrison split over the appointment by President Roosevelt, at Harrison's suggestion, of Edwin D. buildings and at one community, flowers were strewn in the path of the hearse. Business houses closed temporarily.

A 30-day mourning period was decreed and politics for the farmer-labor party officially was taboo until after the funeral Wednesday in Minneapolis.

The state central committee planned to meet the latter part of the week to determine who shall succeed Governor Olson as their candidate for the United States senate. Francis H. Shoemaker, Duluth, former congressman, has announced he would file for the post and planned early circulation of petitions to place his name on the ballot.

SOUTH CAROLINA ISSUE IS NEW DEAL SUPPORT

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 24.—(P)—

Johnston's military highway regime are the main issues in South Carolina's democratic primary tomorrow.

Lane L. Bonner, state democratic secretary, predicted a record vote of 310,000, basing his estimate on the present party enrollment of 481,000.

Chief interest was centered on Senator James F. Byrnes' race for renomination against two anti-New Deal opponents, and Johnston's attempt to capture control of the state legislature.

Byrnes, staunch administration adherent, is opposed by Thomas P. Stoney, former Charleston mayor, and William C. Hardee, a retired marine colonel.

Only four of the state's six congressmen have opposition. The two unopposed are Representative Thomas S. McMillan, of Charleston, in the first district, and Representative J. P. Richards, of Lancaster, in the fifth.

Representative H. P. Fulmer, in the second district, is opposed by Gary Paschal, of Columbia, whom Fulmer defeated two years ago. The third district incumbent, John C. Taylor, is opposed by J. Wade Drake, of Anderson.

Four men seek the place left vacant by the death of the late Representative John J. McSwain, chairman of the house military affairs committee. They are Joseph R. Bryson, Mahon Jr., all of Greenville, and Claude A. Taylor, of Spartanburg.

In the sixth district Representative

A. H. Gasque has opposition in Dr. R. G. Blackburn, of Marion, and James R. Turner, of Bennettsville.

Cloudy, but warm day is promised for city

Atlanta's weather today is a continuation of the serial story of the last week or so—partly cloudy, no rain, the mercury bobbing between 74 degrees in the morning and 90 in the afternoon.

Yesterday lived up to promises from the weatherman. The mercury started at a low of 74 degrees early in the morning and bobbed to 90 degrees in downtown Atlanta and only 91 degrees at the more exposed thermometer in the city.

Throughout the middle west, intense heat continued, and Atlanta, which is now past its drought stage, felt no more than the 90 degrees while the middle west found the mercury up in the hundreds.

CALIFORNIA VOTES IN PRIMARY TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—(P)—Quiet campaigning drew to a close tonight for candidates in tomorrow's state primary election which will furnish a test of strength for the Townsend organization in its approval of 20 contenders for congressional seats.

There are 3,096,320 voters—1,783,028 democrats and 1,108,550 republicans—registered for the primary in which party preference also will be expressed upon candidates seeking nomination for 20 state senatorial seats and 80 in the assembly.

The campaign was punctuated in a few instances by races which had a national background for their interest.

In the twelfth congressional district of Southern California, 14 candidates sought nomination to the congressional office held by Representative John H. Hoepfel, democrat, who recently was convicted of conspiring to sell a West Point appointment.

Sherridan Downey, attorney for the pension plan founder, Dr. F. E. Townsend, opposed Representative Frank H. Buck, democrat, for the third district nomination. Townsends have singled Buck out as particularly hostile to their plan.

A republican candidate, A. L. Stewart, was the Townsend choice in the eleventh district, where Representative John S. McGroarty, who introduced the original Townsend pension bill in congress, McGroarty has broken with Dr. Townsend.

PETERSEN TAKES MINNESOTA OATH

ST. PAUL, Aug. 24.—(P)—Governor Floyd B. Olson came back in triumph today to the state capital he had ruled in life.

Palms banked the bier in the rotunda, where the body was placed after a slow journey from Rochester, Minn., by automobile, under escort of national guardsmen and state highway patrolmen.

State business ceased throughout the day in honor of the man known to his intimates as "Skipper."

Only the solemn words of Chief Justice John P. Devaney administering the oath of office to Björn Petersen, 46-year-old Danish emigrant and newspaper publisher, as the state's 23rd governor, broke the official quiet.

Petersen's family, his wife and two daughters, relatives and friends watched the brief ceremony in the governor's reception room as he succeeded to the state's chief magistracy.

The homecoming of Olson, farmer-labor governor ever elected in the United States, started through roped streets in Rochester, where he died at the age of 44 years from cancer of the stomach Saturday night.

Every town and field through which the cortege passed en route here, had its quota of onlookers.

Flags were at half mast at public buildings and at one community,

SAFETY

FOR OUR 108,000,000 PASSENGERS

THE ONE BIG REASON we use Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES

WHEN you carry 108 million passengers and travel more than 16 million miles a year, tire safety and dependability become one of the most important phases of highway transportation. Big tire users such as the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company know that internal friction creates heat inside the tires, breaking down the cords, causing ply and tread separation and many times causing blowouts. They cannot afford to take chances on using anything but the safest tires built. They also know that only Firestone tires are made with the patented Firestone process of Gum-Dipping which soaks every cotton fiber in every cord with liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat.

This is the reason why Firestone tires run up to 28 degrees cooler and give greatest blowout protection. They will stop a car up to 25% quicker as proved in tests by a leading university and will give more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Take no chances! Drive in today and equip your car with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—profit by the experience of big tire users who know that the safest tires money can buy are always the most economical.

NEW ORDERS ISSUED FOR COUNTY'S AUTOS

all county employees be instructed to help eliminate abuse of privileges. It was understood the grand jury also recommended several cars now being used by certain departments be reassigned to other departments, but this recommendation was not acted upon by the commissioners at the special meeting.

The county board took cognizance of "many indiscreet actions on the part of employees with regard to gas, oil and services to their cars."

Cases in which employees filled their county-owned cars with gas on Saturday afternoon and had to have the tank refilled as soon as they came back to work Monday morning after the week-end were discovered by the grand jury, it was said.

In other instances, employees have taken county cars out of the state on their vacations and it was said one worker went to the Texas Centennial in a county car. Testimony that a number had traveled to Florida and near-by states was given the special grand jury committee headed by Jesse S. Jenkins, which investigated the charges of alleged misuse of the county machines.

Certificate Sale.
The county commissioners, at their special session, also voted the sale of $44,000 worth of highway certificates to the Trust Company of Georgia for a consideration of approximately $32,500.

Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the board; Commissioner George F. Longino, chairman of the finance committee, and Frank R. Fling, clerk of the commission, said these certificates are the same authorized by the board to be sold last October, but that through legal difficulties, the sale had been held up until now.

The money will be used to complete the Fulton Juvenile Detention home, the laundry at Fulton tower and the machine shop at Bellwood camp, they said.

The grand jury was notified by letter from Dr. Adams yesterday of the resolution passed by the commission.

Presentments Unlikely.
It was said the grand jury is yet undecided about bringing up special presentments concerning the county car investigation. If the resolution meets with the approval of the grand jury, it was considered unlikely that presentments will be returned.

Fulton county now has 115 passenger cars, in addition to trucks and other conveyances. It was understood the jury considered this number too high, but made no specific recommendation for reduction.

Used by Office Workers.
It was reported the jurors heard testimony that a number of employees who do clerical or office work principally have cars in which to come to work and go home, but not during the day for official business.

Nearly all the employees who have county cars use them for personal affairs freely, it was understood the grand jury reported to the commissioners. The board, in its resolution, called attention to the fact that cars can be used only for official business, but added "except in minor cases."

Dozens of witnesses were interviewed by the grand jury special committee during the last month.

C. B. Brewer, foreman of the jury, said the jury will consider the commissioners' report at its sessions later.

Check on Gas, Oil.
Commissioners plan to install a new system of recording gas disbursements in an effort to keep a closer watch on gas and oil costs, they said.

Deputy wardens and record clerks from all over the county will attend a conference on the matter Thursday at noon at Bellwood camp, Commissioner Ed A. Almond said, and will be instructed as to the new method.

All county employees getting gasoline and oil will be required to sign receipts, and check will be kept on duplicate records of all fuel dispensed. The record will show who received the gas and oil, in which car, and the amount and date on which it was obtained.

Commissioner Longino said this new system undoubtedly will result in a saving to the county in the annual gasoline bill.

A county employee at the courthouse will be appointed to assemble monthly records on all gas and oil dispensed and report them to the commissioners.

Gov. Landon Declares for Unbiased Schools

ing to pick pockets of members of the crowd listening to Governor Landon. Revisits Childhood Scenes.

Then the republican nominee continued on through Pennsylvania, pausing at Erie. But it was at Conneautville, where Governor Landon spent some of his boyhood, that memories were stirred.

Bareheaded, grinning a boy's grin and enjoying every minute of his visit, the republican nominee trudged across the schoolyard where he played as a six-year-old, squinted at a window he broke with a wild baseball pitch, saw the girl who kissed him and made him cry when they went to primary school, picked elderberries for pie and bought a newspaper—they wouldn't take his preferred nickel—in the ancient shop where he used to dole out his pennies and dimes for candy.

He went, too, down the yellow road to the cemetery where he stood alone for a minute at the tomb of his ancestors—that great-grandfather, Thomas Landon, who was a Revolutionary.

War soldier, and Thomas Landon Jr., the governor's great-grandfather, who fought in the War of 1812.

School Has WPA Wins.
But most of the stop of more than an hour was given over to visiting the spots that in boyhood were so deeply carved into Alf Landon's mind that they will never fade. Or if any of them had dimmed, they came back to him today in such a quick rush of memory that the Kansas governor's grin seemed to mask emotion.

From his train Landon was taken over the tree-clad Pennsylvania hills to the main street of Conneautville. There the townfolk awaited him—men and women he had raced down the village road or had sat across the aisle from when they went to classes in the little red brick schoolhouse two blocks further on.

Across the street was a huge sign: "The home of the Landon family for 100 years." Claude Corey still lives in the town and Claude, who used to play baseball with Landon, was there to meet him, as was another villager, Mrs. C. Montague Irwin, who now lives in St. Paul. They walked with him under the schoolyard trees to the front entrance which was dark and dim after the sunlight outside. The old schoolhouse was easily distinguished from two new wings which bore a "WPA Federal Workers Project" sign.

"I think I once got a hiding for breaking that window with a baseball," Governor Landon drawled, stopping to squint at a window in the old building.

The Governor greeted his old school principal, Professor E. M. Mixer, and dozen of others. But it was Grant Flynn who got perhaps the warmest welcome.

The official party had started back for the station when Landon climbed out and went in Flynn's variety store. "Grant," he said, "I sure remember this old racket store. I could always buy anything here and you got most of my pennies and nickels."

He picked up a newspaper. "I want to spend another nickel here."

But Grant wouldn't take it and Landon left, shoving the coin back into his pocket.

United States scenery "from top to bottom" is displayed from the new California highway that partly scales lofty Mount Whitney and then shows Death Valley, 276 feet below mean tide level.

Text of Landon's Address

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 24—(AP)—The text of Governor Alf Landon's Chautauqua address follows:

All of us like to return to familiar scenes, to meet old friends and renew the associations of bygone days. It is with such a feeling—a feeling of returning home—that I come to Chautauqua. I am coming back to scenes where the boy and the young man, I spent some of the happiest, some of the most profitable days of my life. Chautauqua has meant so much to me that I feel sure a very gifted historian will ever be able to appraise the full value of the movement which originated here.

The annual assemblies on the shore of Lake Chautauqua began 82 years ago. They made Chautauqua a center for men and women wishing a broader, more liberal view of life. They made it a place where ideas were made available through its home reading courses.

The papers that were prepared and read by the thousands of people that were held in the thousands of local communities all over the country, all helped to create an informed public opinion.

KNOWLEDGE CARRIED BACK TO LOCAL COMMUNITIES.
The inspiration, the knowledge, the ideas, that countless thousands received here, were carried back to local communities all over the country.

At a later date, traveling chautauqs, inspired by your success here, became welcome centers of culture to towns and villages throughout the country. Through religious, educational, wholesome entertainment, and in constructive discussions by leaders in various fields of thought, to millions of people who had no other access to such advantages.

It is not too much to say that Chautauqua has been a pioneer in the present leading methods of adult education: our growing summer schools, home reading courses, study by correspondence, and our university college extension services.

The Chautauqua tent in the country town was the symbol of two significant things. One was the deep longing for education that has always stirred the American heart and mind. The other was the native ability of the American people, to provide the means and the institutions to satisfy their hunger for education.

GLAD TO ACCEPT SPEAKING INVITATION.
In view of the great contribution Chautauqua made to American life, I was glad to accept your invitation to speak. The dangers that face free education today were an added incentive. I cannot discuss these dangers with the brilliance or learning of some of our professional educators. I shall not attempt that. But as a parent and as the chief executive of a great state I have had to deal with education, and I know something about its problems. I have learned it is best to meet them squarely and with complete frankness.

Let me give you two of my fundamental conclusions at once, conclusions I have reached as a citizen and as the executive of Kansas. In Kansas we believe our schools—public, parochial and private—must be kept free of all control by the federal government.

In Kansas we insist that no teacher should be required to take any oath not required of all other citizens. In Kansas we believe in academic freedom and we practice it.

Now let me discuss the background of study and experience that led me to these conclusions. They have their roots far back in the history of education in our country. Our forefathers knew the success of a free government depended upon an educated and informed citizenry. This is still true today. Now, as then, public education is the best insurance that can be taken out by a democracy. The first school law enacted in the state of Illinois declared: "To enjoy our rights and liberties, we must understand them."

NOTE DEVELOPMENTS OF LAST FEW YEARS.
If we doubt this, we need merely to look at developments of the last few years. At least some of the failures of popular governments that we have witnessed in other countries, have been largely due to the people's being educated up to the responsibilities of self-government. Each of these failures provides evidence of the wisdom with which our forefathers laid the foundation for our educational system. For remember, in spite of all of their earnest desire for public education, and in spite of their conviction in its supreme value, both to the nation and to the people themselves, the founders set a noteworthy example which we have always followed. This was that they did not use the powers of the national government either to establish an educational system, or to influence its development.

They realized the important truth, that just as life is a process of growth, so are the things by which men live and advance. They put their trust in the wisdom and ability of the people to create their own institutions to serve their own needs.

At times, some of our people become impatient and demand an immediate solution for our needs and problems. They are inclined to take short cuts—to have the thing done at one stroke, by the powerful hand of government. This was not the way in which our educational system was developed. It was the result of patient labor, long struggle and sustained devotion.

SCHOOLS KEEP PACE WITH MODERN LIFE.
As you all know, it took the efforts of a full generation to win the fight for free public schools supported by tax levies. In this fight, the humiliating pauper school laws were the first to go. Then, after more years of effort, we wiped out the last law which, by levying charges upon the parents denied schooling to the children of the poor. This meant that we at last recognized that an education is the birthright of every American child, that to provide for it is the common obligation of the community and of the state. This principle is the foundation upon which our tax-supported public school system has been built.

At the same time, our schools have kept pace with the developments of modern life. The little red school house of the affectionate recollection of the older generation, was adapted to the needs of a simpler age. The school of today faces the problems of more complex conditions. Under the direction of a better educated and no less devoted teaching corps the public schools have gone far beyond the three R's. They have developed this way with the full approval and support of their public—a public which has always stood ready to undergo sacrifices to give adequate training to the future citizens of America. My own state, for example, devotes more than 40 per cent of each tax dollar to the support of the schools, and other communities and states act with corresponding liberality.

One rung after another has been added to the ladder of free public education. Today we have the state universities, the agricultural colleges, the vocational schools, the junior colleges, and the free public libraries. It is a truly democratic ladder. Given the ability within himself, the child from any home can aspire to climb to the highest rung.

PEOPLE, NOT GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE IN SADDLE.
This freedom of educational opportunity has been one of the priceless assets of American life. It has been one of the great unifying forces of our nation. It has helped to train the people for our kind of government. It has maintained democracy at the grass roots.

No one can study this record without being impressed by the imagination and constructive genius of the American people. In every sense, this movement for free public schools came from the people themselves.

At each step, responsibility remained close to them. At no point has the federal government been required to assume charge. At no point has it been necessary to charge any of the fundamental principles of self-government to make the desired progress.

Because our people felt that the school system was their own, their interest in education has always been maintained. They wanted schools that would give their children better opportunities than they themselves had enjoyed, and they were willing to make sacrifices that they would not make for any other public purpose.

Strong religious convictions led groups of our people to establish private schools and colleges at their own expense. No better proof is necessary to show the vitality of religion. Such devotion to principle has made this country great. Throughout our history, religion and education have worked hand in hand. Each owes much to the other; neither can realize its full possibilities without the other.

It seems to me, this is largely the reason why, next to our government, our educational system is our greatest public effort. It has been well termed our outstanding success. But development has taken time. It is true. The processes of a democracy are always slower than those of an all-powerful government. But they are likely to be more certain of good results.

SCHOOLS MUST BE KEPT FREE FROM PRESSURE.
One of the best of these results has been our leaders. We have always welcomed natural leaders, in education, religion, business and government. They could lead in a democracy, because their purpose was service, not power for its own sake.

Our system of free education has failed if class distinctions are allowed to develop in this country. We must look to our teachers to see that they do not develop.

Today, perhaps, to a greater degree than ever before, the control of our educational institutions must be kept in the hands of the local communities and the educators themselves. For we may as well face the fact that the tide is running against free government today. In many lands, the hand of government is closing down upon education. It is being made into a tool, for autocratic purposes. In these countries free inquiry in the pursuit of enlightenment for its own sake is being destroyed.

In these days of widespread propaganda, it is imperative that our teachers be kept free of all control by the federal government. Our newspapers and the radio, be kept independent, either from control of autocratic government or from the influence of any selfish interest.

There must not be censorship of what is spoken or written, and, equally important, there must be no control of the source of news.

But let me say here, it is to our everlasting credit that most of the great gifts to our educational institutions have been made without any strings attached to them. They have been kept singularly free from political influence or bureaucratic control. An excellent example of the freedom which exists today in our educational institutions, is the active interest always taken by educators in our social, political and economic problems. In some instances, the arguments and conclusions advanced by our institutions of learning have jarred the viewpoints of those who are unable to see the necessity for change.

DEEDS TEACHERS' ACTIVITY IN POLITICS.
But many examples could be cited of progressive policies in government and in business, which have had their origin in our educational institutions. Education can usually be counted upon to encourage change when change means progress. Thus, our educational system has not been a thing apart from that restless search of the American people for ways of doing new things, and doing old things better. This is as it should be.

If education is to realize its true goal, it cannot confine itself to an academic discussion of life—it must become part of life itself. I believe education is making a great contribution to the solution of our difficulties. It is creating increased interest and stimulating discussion. Letting every man have his say, is the constitutional method of solving our problems. Why should we make teaching into a suspect profession, by making our teachers take a special oath?

The self-sacrifice and devotion of our teachers is one of the finest examples of public service.

I believe that a teacher has a right to the same freedom of speech in expressing his political, social, or religious convictions as any other citizen.

And I believe that a teacher has the same right to work for the accomplishment of his political and social ideals as any other citizen.

This does not mean that a teacher should use a classroom to put forward his own views and theories at the expense of other views and theories. If he does, he is no longer a teacher; he is a propagandist. Our schools must always be institutions where views are expressed free of the personal prejudices of the teachers. Upon this I am, I believe, in complete agreement with the opinions expressed in resolutions by the teachers themselves through their own associations.

MACHINERY OF GOVERNMENT USED TO RE-ELECT PARTY.
Another danger from propaganda is now present. It is more serious than the danger of our teachers becoming propagandists. It concerns widespread use of the machinery of the federal government to maintain the present administration in power, and to bring about the reelection of the people in their way of life and in their form of government. When money is forcibly taken by government from citizens and used to tear down those things most precious to our people, we see propaganda in its most shabby form.

I believe I am also in agreement with the majority opinion of teachers in thinking that they have a responsibility which is peculiar to them by reason of their calling. They should always see that it is clear, when making their views public, that they are expressing their personal opinions. This is not a question of freedom of speech. It is a matter of decency and respect for the views of others interested in their institutions.

However, we must not be afraid to follow the truth, wherever it may lead. Our standard is its broad application, must remain that expressed by Thomas Jefferson. In explaining the aims of the University of Virginia, he said: "The institution will be based on the illimitable freedom of the human mind. For here we are not afraid to follow truth wherever it may lead, nor to tolerate error as long as reason is left free to combat it."

The right of free inquiry is one of the essentials of free government. It is the very bedrock of democracy.

We must ever remember that academic freedom, political freedom, religious freedom and freedom of opportunity are all bound together. Infringement upon one will soon lead to infringement upon the others. In fighting to maintain our freedom, we will make greatest progress by fighting for the freedom of all.

We should not overlook the fact, however, that today, both at home and abroad, men are striving for power through leadership of the mob. Because of this, I believe that our educators should make a more than normal effort to see that a youth is given a background of our heritage and tradition—a fundamental understanding of the form and philosophy of our government.

Only through ignorance or bigotry can we be destroyed. With understanding and intelligence, our future citizens will be able to separate truth from the ever-increasing amount of propaganda.

We Americans are still in control of our destiny. We can remain so only through the process of sound education.

MRS. CALVIN PARKER LAUDS RIVERS' AIMS

Support of Women Pledged to House Speaker at Hotel Rally.

Speaker E. D. Rivers was assured the support of the democratic women of Georgia in his race for governor last night by Mrs. Calvin Parker, widow of the late public service commissioner, representing the women of the eighth congressional district.

Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, national democratic committeewoman from Georgia, and other women arose on the floor at the weekly Rivers round-table meeting at the Ansley hotel to declare "Georgia women are for Ed Rivers."

Hundreds of women traveled from sections throughout the state to attend the "ladies' session" at the Ansley last night. More than 100 women formed a "For Women Only" motorcade from Lakeland and senior citizens, Rivers' home, and their speaker, Mrs. L. L. Patton, who was in charge of the long line of cars, said "Lanier county will go 90 per cent for Ed Rivers on September 9."

Mrs. Price introduced the seven Lewis sisters of Fayette county, the home county of Candidate Redwine, who are Rivers' supporters. At the call for county delegations, none was larger than the group from Fayette. Nearly every county in Georgia was represented.

Speaking on behalf of the women voters, Mrs. Parker said:

"I am honored in having the privilege to convey to our host this evening the full confidence and cordial greetings of the women of the eighth congressional district, the lifelong friends and neighbors of the Hon. E. D. Rivers and Mrs. Rivers.

"The occasion which brings us together is momentous in many ways. This is the first time in the history of political campaigning in this state that a time has been set aside to recognize the work that the women are doing in the campaign. Never has any candidate declared in a public manner, the potential force and influence of the Georgia women's vote as has Mr. Rivers. They will show their appreciation at the polls on September 9 by an overwhelming women's vote for him.

Democracy's Desire.

"An efficient, orderly, democratic state government is the desire of the citizens of this state. The question before all Georgians is clear-cut and cannot be disguised or camouflaged. The issue at stake is whether our state shall align itself with the enemies of the party of our fathers; continue to lag, to criticize and attack the democratic administration until they deliver Georgia into the hands of the enemy—or whether our state shall, once more resume its honored place among the democratic state governments of this nation, a place it has held for generations.

"Georgia women have ever been guardians of democracy. It is they who have trained in the past, and are training today the citizens of our state. They are aware of the gravity of this issue and realize the measure of their responsibility. Their presence here tonight in such large numbers demonstrates this fact. Not one of us must dare do less than our utmost toward the election of Mr. Rivers, that will sweep Mr. Rivers into office, with a victory so overwhelming, so conclusive that no one can doubt that this state is again committed to stand by the great humanitarian of this age, our President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Clark Howell commended.

"I want to commend here the untiring efforts of Mrs. Rivers, who has been the leading candidate in the race.

"We, friends of Mr. Rivers, believe he is not only the leading candidate, but the best equipped candidate in the race, a man who has been trained for the governor's office in the legislative halls of this state, and a man who has dedicated his life to public service.

"Mr. Rivers, we are with you and hail you as Georgia's next governor."

Mrs. Price called upon numerous women in the audience to make brief talks.

Mrs. Fred Stowe, of Toccoa, Stephens county, who was a delegate to the national democratic convention at Philadelphia, said: "We are for Ed Rivers. When he is elected governor

Talmadge Deliberately Covered Up Opposition to F. D. R., Rivers Says

Quotes Speeches by Governor Prior to 1934 Election; Flays Redwine for Georgia Senate Blocking of New Deal Co-operation Bills.

LAFAYETTE, Ga., Aug. 24.—Had Governor Talmadge let the people of Georgia know in 1934 how he really felt toward President Roosevelt, Talmadge would have never been re-elected governor of this state, E. D. Rivers, candidate for governor and speaker of the house of representatives, declared here today.

Speaker Rivers explained that he supported Governor Talmadge for re-election in 1934, believing him in accord with the President and the national administration.

"Had Talmadge let the people know how he intended to fight the President," Speaker Rivers said, "he would not have had my support nor the support of the countless thousands who worked for him and voted for him.

"So strong was the Governor in his assurances of co-operation with President Roosevelt in 1934 that I must quote from his speeches to let you know once more how fully you and I were misled. Here's how he put it: 'I glory in the fact that my co-operation as governor of Georgia with the national administration has succeeded in bringing into the state $16,176,168.78.'

"I glory in the fact that no application I have ever made to the federal government has ever been turned down or questioned.

"In Georgia it's Roosevelt and Talmadge."

Speaker Rivers severely criticized Governor Talmadge for his veto of the old age pension bill and his attitude toward free textbooks for Georgia school children.

Frenzy Over Power.

"In a frenzy over the power he was asserting beyond all reason he vetoed a measure allowing the people to vote on a constitutional amendment providing for old age security.

"I left the speaker's stand and took the floor of the house to protest against this illegal and outrageous veto. The house promptly voted to override the Governor's veto by an overwhelming majority," the speaker explained.

"The bill then died because President Redwine, of the senate, would never let it come to a vote in the upper house, Rivers charged.

"I expect to continue my fight for free school books until they become a reality, and if elected your governor I expect to see such a bill again passed by the general assembly. I assure you that I, as governor, will not veto it."

"When we educate our children we give them all that the average citizen can give a child. Not many of us will ever be able to leave lands, money, stocks or bonds as a heritage to our children. About all we can hope to give them is an education. We can accomplish that through a state-supported system of equal educational advantages," Speaker Rivers declared.

GOVERNOR IS FLAYED FOR PENSION VETO

CELESTOWN, Ga., Aug. 24.—Responsibility for lack of an old-age pension provision was laid directly at selfish and high motive which prompted the national committeeman to seek to associate the leading New Deal candidate, that democracy might not be defeated in Georgia. The result of this poll showed an overwhelming sentiment in favor of Mr. Rivers.

"In the early days, when women's clubwork was in the pioneering stage in this state, Clark Howell was the first editor of the leading New Deal full page in his paper to promote the activities of organized women. When he was national committeeman, for the first time, he had named for Georgia a national committeewoman before Georgia women were privileged to vote, that the women of this state might have recognition.

"Mr. Howell finds that Mr. Rivers is the leading candidate for governor and deplors the fact that there is more than one New Deal candidate in the race.

Support Pledged.

"We, friends of Mr. Rivers, believe he is not only the leading candidate, but the best equipped candidate in the race, a man who has been trained for the governor's office in the legislative halls of this state, and a man who has dedicated his life to public service.

"Mr. Rivers, we are with you and hail you as Georgia's next governor."

Mrs. Price called upon numerous women in the audience to make brief talks.

E. D. RIVERS ACCUSED AS FOE OF ROOSEVELT

Fortson Charges Weekly's "Efforts To Embarrass the President."

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Aug. 24.—Judge Blanton Fortson today charged E. D. Rivers, who is running for governor as New Deal candidate, as a "consistent and bitter enemy of Roosevelt and the President's true friends in Georgia."

In a statement issued here, Fortson quoted editorials appearing in the Ed Rivers Weekly, declaring that "Rivers went so far in his efforts to embarrass President Roosevelt as to attack the confidence of the people in him that he charged Roosevelt with being influenced by the Morgan moguls and the President's personal representative, Norman H. Davis, with 'belonging to the same sires of slush.' (Ed Rivers Weekly, September 29, 1933.)"

Fortson charged "Ed Rivers and Clark Howell with obscuring the issue of good government in this campaign and trying to elect Rivers solely because Howell said Rivers is the champion of the President and the New Deal. The truth of the matter is, Howell and Rivers and Talmadge and Redwine all are responsible for our present plight. And all four have been aligned in covertly opposing the Roosevelt policies. Now that they have split on purely personal matters, they are attempting to again deceive the people by obscuring the real issue.

"But since they have attempted to make it appear that Rivers is the candidate of the Roosevelt administration, I think it only fair that the record of Rivers regarding the New Deal as shown by his own newspaper, the Ed Rivers Weekly, should be revealed to the voters. And I think it only fair that the real friends of Mr. Roosevelt and his policies, after seeing the Rivers record, demand that he withdraw from this race as a Roosevelt candidate and that Committee Howell resign his official position in the party if he persists in his course of sponsoring a candidate who has continuously fought the President."

RAMSPECK PREDICTS
ROOSEVELT'S RETURN

Still Greater Advance Is Foreseen by Congressman in Speech.

Roosevelt's re-election next November will assure a continued and forceful wave of prosperity, Congressman Robert Ramspeck declared last night, in his campaign address over radio.

"I am anxious to have a part in the continuance of this program which started in 1933 under the leadership of our president," the congressman declared, "I firmly believe the people of America will return this great leader to the White House and that he will complete his program with the help of a democratic house and senate."

The congressman said he believed that under the leadership of the democratic party the nation will be carried forward during the next four years to higher standards of living and to a civilization in which the majority of Americans will find greater opportunity.

In referring to the Roosevelt administration, the congressman said: "The pump of private business has been primed by public works, confidence has been restored in our financial institutions and bank deposits have been guaranteed. The wheels of industry are turning faster and faster each day; the purchasing power of farmers has been restored through a wise agricultural program."

RIVERS TO ADDRESS VOTERS OF DEKALB

Speaker Expected To Renew Spirited Assault on Talmadge Regime.

Ed Rivers' supporters of DeKalb and surrounding counties will gather at 8:30 o'clock tonight to hear the leading gubernatorial candidate against the Talmadge regime speak at the DeKalb county courthouse.

Rivers is expected to "made into" his opposition with his characteristic fighting pose and will pay his respects to what he contends is an unholy alliance between Redwine, Redwine and the republican forces of the state and nation to ride roughshod over Georgia democracy."

Scott Chandler, mayor of Decatur, will present the speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, E. J. Newmeyer, mayor of Lithonia, is chairman of the DeKalb County Ed Rivers for Governor Club, and will preside as master of ceremonies.

"We expect a large contingent of DeKalb supporters and well as hundreds from surrounding counties," Newmeyer said in discussing the meeting. "Mr. Rivers expects to continue his vigorous campaign with an invasion of DeKalb, but it already is safely in the Rivers column. We want the people of DeKalb and our neighbors to come out and meet the next governor of Georgia."

Prior to the speaking, the women of DeKalb county will entertain Mr. Rivers at a reception at the Chandler hotel.

Douglasville 'Cue Is Great Success

The Douglasville barbecue, which the Cracker players hope becomes an annual affair, was enjoyed by one and all yesterday at Roy Entekin's spring grove up in Douglas county. The Cracker players, like the merry month of March, came in like lions and went out like lambs. Whatever the Douglasville people ask them to do next year to earn a bar-

Douglasville People Give a Grand Party

Crackers Exercise to Whet Their Appetites... As If They Didn't Have 'Em Already.

By Jack Troy.

DOUGLASVILLE, Aug. 24.—The proof of the barbecue truly was in the eating as the Cracker baseball team enjoyed to the fullest extent the al fresco party that was held on the lawn of Roy Entekin's spring place here this afternoon.

Douglasville baseball fans gave the Crackers one grand party. The Crackers began arriving early and were allowed to play horseshoes, shoot rifles at targets and generally work up an appetite for what was to come. In the long covered pit, legs of lambs, scores of chickens and pork hams simmered over the coals. Every once in a while, some one would lift the cover and allow the players to get a whiff of the delicious meat. Whereupon the boys were allowed to go back to their horseshoes and target practice.

Finally, W. J. Dozier whetted up the carving knives and the feast began. Only the houses and smoldering coals were left as a testimonial that there had been a barbecue.

Mr. Dozier, Colonel Astor Merritt, Dr. R. E. Hamilton and Alpha Fowler were heard in short speeches enjoining the players' work this season, and inviting them to make Douglasville their second home.

UNNECESSARY. It was unnecessary to invite the Crackers to return to Douglasville. All the fans of Douglas county need to do is set some goal for the Crackers with a barbecue offered as the reward. The Crackers will attain the goal.

The last goal was easy. The Crackers were assured that if they took three out of four games from Nashville that they would be given a party. They practically took the Vols limb from limb in their eagerness to clinch the invitation. And what they did to the barbecue yesterday was even more impressive.

Mr. Dozier, George Smith, Mr. Entekin and the rest of the Douglasville guests will readily attest to the foregoing, I am sure.

Mr. Entekin, by the way, is one of the most remarkable men you could hope to meet. He lost his hand in a railroad accident years ago. People who think they have met adversity don't look upon life with a long face. He would make his acquaintance. He could be the life of any party.

AUNT MINNIE'S 57TH. Aunt Minnie McGouirk, Johnny Hill's next door neighbor here, celebrated her fifty-seventh birthday today. She said it was one of the finest birthdays she had ever had.

Aunt Minnie is one of the most loyal supporters the Crackers have. She rarely misses a night game in Atlanta.

At one night game, it was rather warm and Aunt Minnie was raising a storm with her fan. She chanced to voice a couple of men sitting near her and she said, "pardon me, gentlemen, the wind too strong on you?"

The good people of Douglasville hope Aunt Minnie has 57 more happy, radiant birthdays. She is one of the truly fine souls in this world of ours.

It was a wonderful outing. President Earl Mann, Manager Eddie Moore and all the Cracker players were here. Several of the wives were present, too, and had a wonderful time.

The hospitality of Douglasville people is something to write home about.

AUGUSTA CHAMPS. AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Ernest Merry and Allen Dale Smith won the city doubles tennis title by defeating Arthur Mayoyt and J. Borthwell Lee, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, in the finals.

LOUIS, ETTORE ARE MATCHED

Conqueror of Haynes Meets Bomber at Philadelphia Sept. 22.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(UP)—Joe Louis and Al Ettore, Philadelphia Italian, were matched today for a 15-round bout at the Philadelphia municipal stadium September 22.

The bout will be promoted by Bob Gurniss and Herman Taylor, of Philadelphia, with Promoter Mike Jacobs, of New York's 20th Century Club sharing in the profits. Jacobs has Louis' services under contract.

Jacobs announced the match today after shuffling Joe's managers, Julian Black, of Chicago, and John Roxborough, of Detroit, agreed by telephone. Ettore's managers, Lew Teller and Jake Friedman, agreed some time ago.

Ettore, a busy, rugged blond scrappy, won the right to a crack at Louis by three straight victories over Leroy "Howitzer" Haynes, the Philadelphia negro who knocked out Primo Carnera twice and who was being groomed as a "black menace" for Joe Louis.

MARION MILEY IS CO-MEDALIST

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 24.—(AP) Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., who has been burning up the fairways in America and England this year, became the first woman to win the closed golf championship today by tying for the medal at 79 strokes with Dorothy Gustafson, of South Bend. Leading a procession of 150 golfers—close to a record—entry-off, Louis posted a 38-41 which stood up without challenge until Miss Gustafson came along with her last nine holes for 41-38 and a tie for the medalist.

Close on the heels of the leaders came Patty Berg, the toast of Minneapolis and "Baby" on this year's international Curtis cup squad, with her 41-39-80, scored despite a badly blistered left hand, on which she wore a bandage and Bernice Wall, the Oshkosh (Wis.) star, a last-minute entry, with 41-40-81.

Decatur Starts Grid Work Monday

Decatur High will open its annual football practice at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon on the Decatur field. Coach Wendell Sullivan announced next Monday afternoon. Practices will follow each afternoon throughout the fall and winter season.

Joe Martin, end on the University of Georgia team for several years and a graduate of the 1928 team, has been appointed assistant coach and will be in full charge of the line, with Sullivan handling the backfield.

Decatur is working on a 10-game schedule, which will be completed the latter part of the week.

The opening game will be with Tech High on September 25. Games are pending with Athens High, Boys' High, Thomaston, Commercial High, Gainesville, LaGrange, Griffin, Spalding County and Russell High.

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 24.—To get here we turned left in the center of Douglasville and drove a few blocks and then turned right for the feast given by the baseball fans of this city to the Atlanta baseball champions. We could see the parked cars. Once out of the car and through the gate, we could see the barbecue pit beneath the grove of trees.

There was a grove of hickory and oak trees. And a scene which only Georgia can correctly produce—a genuine barbecue.

The pit was dug fresh for the cooking and over the mesh grill were the already browned chickens, loins of lamb and pork and pork hams.

Mr. W. J. Dozier was watching the barbecue, keeping an attentive eye on it. A great many culinary and gastronomic crimes are committed in the name of barbecue, but real barbecue of carefully selected meats is food fit for any epicure's table. It would be interesting to know how many people think they have eaten of barbecue and have not.

Mr. Dozier is a barbecue expert. None but the selected meats go on his grill to cook slowly over coals basted in a sauce which is the real soul of a barbecue. Most of the alleged barbecue of the world is merely roasted meat which has poured over it a sauce which is just hot sauce lacking in piquancy and flavor.

"The sauce," said Mr. Dozier, "is the soul of the barbecue. It must be cooked into the meat. It must be cooked into it slowly through long hours of prayer and watchful waiting. It must enter the meat delicately, but thoroughly, filling it with its flavor."

COME AND LOOK.

"Come and look," he said. And stepped forward and raised a protective covering which had but lately been placed over it.

He revealed a picture no artist could paint. There were the halves of chickens, brown and firm and yet moist with the sauce. There were the loins of lambs and pork and hams.

The golden brown of them was a color which excited the appetite. A colored attendant came up. "Mistah Dozier," he said, "it's about time to turn that meat. Must I put more sauce on?"

"Put more on," said Mr. Dozier. And the meat received another basting of the sauce. And then was turned. "That meat," said Mr. Dozier, "has been cooking since yesterday."

Barbecue, real barbecue, is cooked with coals, never with fire. Hickory coals or charcoal serve best. The process is a slow one, but the finished product is a rare one in these days of "bar-b-cue."

"How about the sauce?" I asked. "For this," he said, "I used a gallon and a half of apple vinegar, five pounds of the best butter, two bottles of tabasco, one box each of cayenne and black pepper, a generous pouring of Worcester sauce, a dozen lemons and a dash of salt. Taste it," he added. The taste was hot, and yet it did not burn. It was not strong, and yet it could carry an election. It was mellow and tasty.

FOR PITCHING ARMS. Mr. Jim Lindsey, the big right-hander of the staff, wandered in time to take a taste of the sauce.

"Man," he said, smacking his lips, "that stuff is powerful. I think I will get you to make up a gallon of it," he said to Mr. Dozier.

"I believe if I took that back and rubbed it on my

CITY GOLF MEET SET WEDNESDAY

Large Entry Expected for Last Big Tourney; Match Play Thursday.

Atlanta's amateur golfers will hold their last rounds of practice today before the annual city amateur tournament opens Wednesday morning on the Druid Hills course. The Atlanta Amateur will be the final big golf tournament of the year for city players and preparations are being made to care for every entry.

There will be as many flights of 16 players as are necessary to take care of all the entries, with no limit being placed on the number of flights. It's a city-wide tourney and a grand climax to one of the best summer seasons in the history of Atlanta golf.

And it is not just a tournament for idle vacationists, but one for every amateur golfer in the city who desires to take advantage of the opportunity.

BUSINESSMEN TO PLAY. The businessmen can participate and will have to lose only three half days from their work, under the new arrangement. And for some, the starting times will be arranged so that a minimum loss from work will be necessary.

Qualifying will be over the 18-hole route Wednesday, any time suitable to the contestants. And starting times must be served today, or take first come first served post entries, in Wednesday's play.

One round of 18 holes match play is scheduled for Thursday, another for Friday, with two 18-hole matches, the quarter and semi-finals, set for Saturday. Finals in all flights except the championship (36 holes) will be 18 holes and all finals will be played Sunday.

The tournament is being sponsored by the Atlanta Golf Association, and the new plan is a sort of experiment. It was designed to take care of every entry possible, particularly the businessmen who cannot afford to lose too much time from their work.

EVERY AMATEUR ELIGIBLE. Every amateur golfer in the city is eligible and invited to participate. For those players who are members of some club affiliated with the golf association, the entry fee will be $3, but others not connected with the club, an additional $1 will be charged for an associate membership.

Paul Duke will be the starter and tournament referee and will be at the Druid Hills club all afternoon to accept entries and assign starting times. He will be assisted by Harry Stephens, the Druid Hills professional.

Post entries will be accepted Wednesday as long as time will permit the playing of 18 holes before dark. The early entries will receive the preference and as many entries as possible are urged to sign this afternoon.

Doctors Postpone Golf Tournament. The monthly golf tournament of the Fulton County Medical Society has been postponed from Wednesday, August 26, to Wednesday, September 2. The match will be played at East Lake Country Club. Drs. William C. Warren Jr. and C. W. Strickler Jr. will captain the two teams. The match will begin at 1:30 p. m. and dinner will be served at 6:30.

Yates, Brown Head Atlanta Golf List

Today's East Lake Qualifying Will Be One Among 30 Over United States.

By Roy White.

Eleven of the city's outstanding amateur stars along with the best from Athens, Rome, Knoxville and Nashville, will attempt to qualify today over the No. 2 East Lake course for four places in the National Amateur September 14-19, at Garden City Golf Club, Garden City, N. Y. It will be a 36-hole medal play with the first round scheduled for 9 o'clock and the second at 1:30 o'clock.

Today's East Lake qualifying will be one among 30 in all sections of the United States to determine the 200 entries for the national crown in September. There will be some exceptions, due to good finishes last year, but more than 175 players will have to qualify today in the sectional events.

James (Kid) Brown, Georgia's amateur champion, entered from the Athens Country Club, and Charlie Yates, who has won a place several times, will head the city's delegation. Other Atlanta entries include Dan Yates, Charlie's young brother, playing for the first time in the sectional qualifying; Ike Osburn, Jack Bothamley, Harry Fryckberg, Crawford Rainwater, Charles Dannels Jr., Dan Sage Jr., R. J. Bicknell, and Tommy Barnes.

OUT-OF-TOWN. The out-of-town entries include Richard Hale, James Tupper and Lindsey Fitch, Belle Meade course, Nashville; Tommy Wright, Knoxville; Rosser Little and Jim Dudley, Athens, and Alvin Everett, Rome. Everett is the only southerner entered and was selected as an alternate last year.

Dr. Julius Hughes, Atlanta's open champion and winner of the Radium Springs Invitation tournament Saturday at Albany, did not enter.

Keith Conway, president of the Atlanta Golf Association and a representative of the United States Golf Association, will be in charge of today's qualifying at East Lake and will be assisted by George Sargent, the East Lake professional.

The No. 2 East Lake course is in the best condition since it was opened several years ago. Recent rains have caused the grass to grow well on both the fairways and the greens and there can be no complaint about the course today.

MARKERS SET BACK. The markers will be set back as far as possible on the tees and the cups for the most part will be placed in the most difficult spots on the greens. And with the tees well back, the course measures 6,755 yards for today's play, with a par of 36-36-72.

Ike Osburn, Capital City, and Jack Bothamley, Druid Hills, two Atlanta entries, will open the fireworks at 9 o'clock and also will lead the parade in the afternoon round starting at 1:30 o'clock. Other players will follow at five minute intervals and the same order of the morning round will be followed in the afternoon.

TODAY'S FAIRINGS. 9 A. M.-1:30 P. M.—I. J. Osburn, Capital City, and Jack Bothamley, Druid Hills. 9:05 A. M.-1:35 P. M.—Harry Fryckberg, West End, and Crawford Rainwater, A. A. C. 9:10 A. M.-1:40 P. Fans Puzzled Over Raines Tactics

Dick Raines, one of wrestling's leading villains and showmen, has the public guessing as to what tactics he will employ in his return match with Orville Brown at the ball park Thursday night.

Raines took a week's layoff after losing to Brown on a foul here a fortnight ago. At the time, he said he was overworked and was taking a much needed rest. However, those fans who have seen him come up with one surprise after another this season, freely assert he has been up to some sort of monkey shines and that he has been working on a new hold of some sort, equally as dangerous as the pile driver, which the Atlanta commission barred.

At any rate, when Raines goes into action, the wrestling adherents have learned to expect anything. The Texan had the biggest crowd of the year in a state of frenzy during his last match with Brown. There is no reason to suspect he won't be every bit as stormy this time.

Orville Brown's brother, Frank, who gave Bill Lee a whale of a battle until he missed a flying tackle and landed in the third row ringside last week, will encounter Marshall Blackstock, of Chattanooga, in the semi-final.

Jack Thomas, Australian, and Al Maynard, Boston, are scheduled for the opening event.

Jurges, Campbell Fight—Banished

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Bill Jurges, Chicago shortstop, and Bill Campbell, Cincinnati catcher, were banished from the game for fighting in the tenth inning of today's contest between the Cubs and Reds.

The trouble started when Campbell charged into Jurges at second base. Both came up fighting but were soon separated by teammates.

The banishment of Campbell left the Reds without a catcher, as Ernie Lombardi had played the first part of the game. Hub Walker, an outfielder, was pressed into service behind the plate.

WALLACE RAPS BORAH ON TARIFF PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(P)—Secretary Wallace and his sugar adviser took issue today with a speech in which Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, urged a higher tariff to "give the American farmer the American market up to the limit of his production."

tary of agriculture asserted when the import duty on sugar was raised it "stimulated supplies from insular possessions" and forced the price of domestic sugar beets down.

In a formal statement answering Borah's speech, which advocated sugar protection, Joshua Bernhardt, chief of the AAA sugar section, said: "The American sugar beet farmer has had the American market up to the limit of his production."

$25,000 IN ARTICLES
STOLEN FROM N.Y. SHOP

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(P)—The theft of gold and silver cigarette cases and lighters valued at approximately $25,000 from an exclusive Rockefeller Center shop was disclosed by the police today.

They said the shop had been looted some time over the week-end, apparently by more than one person. Many of the lighters and cigarette

ACREAGE WITHDRAWAL REQUESTED IN FLORIDA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(P)—State land planning consultants told the Resettlement Administration 1,102,000 acres should be withdrawn from agricultural use in Florida to conserve the state's land resources.

Resettlement Administration officials said a program to withdraw 632,834 acres from production was under way at the six land retirement projects in the state.

They said $2,416,937 is budgeted for the retirement plan. A land development program in four of the projects will cost $2,088,377, officials added.

Six of the Florida projects already are in operation.

here I can yet perform a service for the people of Atlanta.

"I had hoped to be renominated without opposition, but I've had to fight for everything I ever got and if we must have a fight this time, we'll have a fight."

"I have got to be fair with the people of Atlanta. I must come clean with them as I always have. It is just in my make-up to take the people into my confidence. That probably accounts for the fact that you have honored me more than you have any other man in this city's history."

Record of Dignity.

"I'm going to tell you where my opposition came from, and I know. I have committed no crime, I have stolen nothing and I have not permitted anyone else to steal anything. I have always conducted the office you entrusted to me with dignity and honor. I have conducted my campaigns with dignity and honor and propose to conduct this one the same way."

"I don't think it is necessary for me to make any special speeches in view of the kind of speeches being made by my opponents."

"It has gotten so you can't turn on a radio without some fellow looking up a tree for a job. When my opponents use the radio, I don't listen."

"I don't care what they say, anyway. The people of Atlanta know what has been done in the city government. They don't have to be told about it by candidates, who want a job."

"I'm going to repeat the reasons for my opposition and tell where it comes from in every speech I make in this town."

Newspapers Assailed.

The mayor then reiterated the Otis kidnapping story and the part the Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Georgian played in it, and told his audience the Journal grew vicious and vindictive.

"I hate to part with friends of lifetime," he added. "It hurts me to do so, but I had to defend Chief Sturdivant (Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant) from the unjust attacks made on him."

"I don't know what's come over that paper (the Journal). It's policies have changed. Under the guidance of the late Senator John S. Cohen it was a fine example of journalistic enterprise, but that has changed."

"It appears they are trying to make a republican paper out of it. It is enough to make Mr. Cohen turn over in his grave to see what is happening."

"What's the matter with them? They have quit championing Mr. Roosevelt, the greatest humanitarian who ever occupied the White House and the best friend Georgia ever had there."

"They are not supporting Senator Richard B. Russell. They are against me because I had the courage to defend a city employee who was doing his simple duty and doing a good job of it."

"Anybody But Key."

"And I see a sign reading: 'Anybody But Key.'"

"Anybody who'll let him stick his head in the public treasury suits him. Key won't do that."

"Many times the credit of the city has been preserved and money to meet the salaries of employees promptly has been provided only because I served notice on city council that I would not sign checks for appropriations it made unless mandated to do so by the courts. I haven't been mandated yet, and I won't be."

"The 'anybody but Key' proponent paid $15,000 for a part of the John A. White park property several years ago. Records of the city show he has already been paid more than $30,000 for the time the city used it. He was tax exempt on the property and proceeds for seven years, and still insists on another $60,000 for it."

"I told him I'd see him in hell before I'd agree to pay any such price for it, and now he is flying signs reading: 'Anybody but Key.'"

McRAE-BOYKIN BRUSH

McRae spoke before Boykin and told his hearers that every vote Boykin got over him in the primary four years ago, cost the solicitor $90 each.

He arrived at the figure by his total vote against Boykin's and the amount of money he spent as compared with that expended by Boykin. "Atlanta is second all the cities in the United States in the percentage of major crimes," McRae said. "Solicitor Boykin has held the post as solicitor for 20 years. This condition grew up while he was solicitor."

"If there are any jewels coming to me, they are written in the records of the courts of this county," Boykin said as he opened his speech. "I have never checked the records which have been told you, but I doubt the correctness of them coming from the source they do not my duty to police the city. If crime conditions are as they have been pictured to you, someone else is at fault. We have handled cases with dispatch and vigor."

YOUTH BLAMES SPITE IN SELF-MUTILATION

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 24.—(P)—Deputy Sheriff Sid Saunders said tonight 19-year-old Carl Sloane told officers he mutilated himself because he was "mad" at a girl whose name he didn't know.

The young laborer was quoted by Saunders as saying he knew only where the girl lived, had seen her but occasionally and became angry because he found her not at home Friday night.

Sloane, who was taken to a hospital in critical condition from loss of blood and shock Saturday had previously told Deputy Saunders and Constable Todd Tucker two unidentified men seized him, threw him to the ground and performed the crude partial emasculation.

MISSISSIPPI REACHES
11-YEAR LOW RECORD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 24.—(P)—With the Mississippi river at its lowest level in 11 years, United States engineers of the Memphis district today had six dredges working at top speed to keep a clear channel for navigation.

The river gauge here stood at 1.1 of a foot below the zero level, and was the lowest since September 15, 1925, when the reading was .8 feet below zero.

"We are maintaining a channel with some difficulty at certain points," Colonel Eugene Reidy, in charge of the Memphis district, said.

Mother Admits Slaying Of Girl, 16, for Fussing

SEATTLE, Aug. 24.—(P)—Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff O. K. Bodie announced today Mrs. Ester Hilda Clark, 33, had confessed she killed her daughter, Rose, because she "complained too much that she didn't have nice things other girls have."

"I thought it was doing her a favor by killing her," Bodie quoted the mother as saying.

The body of the 16-year-old girl, her head beaten and her throat cut, was found buried in the brush near her home, Bodie said.

The confession, as announced by Bodie, said last Thursday was the daughter's birthday and that the girl attended a party that night.

"After she had gone to bed, I ate a grapefruit with a lot of sugar on it, and I got a funny feeling and funny ideas came into my head," the confession said. "Then I grabbed the ax and hit her on the head. I took the butcher knife and cut her throat."

"She was always fussing around here," Mrs. Olson, also known as Mrs. Clark, said she never had been married legally to Rose's father, Bodie said.

"I've been on relief, getting $10 a month, for a year and a half. What chance did Rose have to be anybody, or have anything?" Bodie quoted the confession.

HOOVER TO SPEAK AT GOTHAM FORUM

Ex-President Will Talk From Same Platform as Democrats, Reds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(P)—The name of former President Herbert Hoover was added today to the list of presidential candidates and leading spokesmen of the seven major and minor parties who will address an assembly of clubwomen here September 22 and 23.

The meeting will be held at a New York hotel for the sixth annual forum on current problems under auspices of the New York Herald Tribune.

Other additions to the tentative program announced today include Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; Arthur A. Ballantine, former secretary of the treasury; Theodore Christman, congressman and former governor of Minnesota, and Colonel Henry Breckinridge.

Already announced as taking part in the forum are President Roosevelt, who will broadcast to the assembly from the White House as in previous years; Governor Alfred M. Landon, who will address the group from Topeka, Kan.; John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the republican national committee, and James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee.

Presidential nominees of the five minor parties scheduled to speak are Norman Thomas, socialist; John W. Aiken, socialist labor party; Earl Browder, communist; D. Leigh Colvin, prohibition party, and William Lemke, union party.

SEATTLE, Aug. 25.—(P)—Five Seattle furniture factories employing about 400 persons were closed by picket lines when the furniture workers local union went on strike today. Employees were called to confer with heads of five Tacoma plants similarly closed last Wednesday.

The union stated the strike had been authorized two months ago after efforts to obtain a working agreement to replace the one which expired March 1.

COTTON LOANS INVITED

As in the past we are ready to assist in the orderly marketing of the cotton crop by extending loans on cotton direct to the farmer on applications coming to us from his local bank. We also invite loans from cotton merchants and cotton mills.

The banks of Georgia and the South are amply able to finance the movement of the 1936 crop and this institution will be glad to again co-operate with banks throughout this territory in making necessary funds available.

Treasure Hunt Proves Exciting For Younger Set and Visitor

By Sally Forth.

IF ANY of the younger set were arrested for parking on a yellow line or too near a fire plug last evening, it was because they were solving the clues in the treasure hunt given by Lynn Nutting honoring Eloise Dickey and her guest, Eleanor Elliott, of Washington, D. C. Lynn's mother, Mrs. J. N. Nutting, thoughtfully advised the guests if they could not guess the answer to the clues at once, not to drive recklessly up and down streets and over the hills, but to park their cars and think it out. A safety first suggestion, to say the least, which should be followed always. Mrs. Nutting also commanded that curfew be sounded at 11 o'clock and that guests must "check in" at the Nutting residence on Fifteenth street at this hour.

The party started at 7:30 o'clock with a delectable buffet supper. After the feast, boys and girls were given clues composed and written by Mrs. Knowles Davis, sister of the hostess, and the former Jean Nutting. A few of the more interesting ones are as follows: "If all the world's a stage, I would make our shadow shapes too hard to find, but if your chance is No. 10, it ought to bring it quick to mind." (The answer: The Tenth Street theater.)

Another clue read: "The hounds have led him many a chase, he's read his fortune in a glass, for 'all the way,' this is the place." (The Crystal lunch room, near the Fox theater, is the answer.) And here's another: "One less than the men on a dead man's chest, for food these birds like chicken best." (The crowd found the answer to the above at Hawks' Drug Store, at West Peachtree and Fourteenth streets.) The following proved a hard one, although one couple drove there for a cool drink to think out the answer: "It's not a road, it's not a street; it's hot, cold, wet, and dry; it decked in brilliant plumage, it snarls the passer-by." (The answer: Peacock Alley.)

There were many other clues which took the young people all over the north side until they finally found one which said: "Leave no stone unturned in your hurried quest, don't bridge the gap; this side is best, tomorrow morning you can rest." The answer to this was the unfinished bridge in Morningstar, and the first couple to arrive there received a key upon which was attached the last clue, which read:

"H. W. Towell, at 73 Fifteenth street, will present the treasure to the bearer of this key." In case you are not familiar with the current fad of "scrambled words," H. W. Towell, it is none other than "The Willow," the massive tree in the Nutting front yard, under which was placed the prize for the winner—a large chest filled with shiny pennies, truly a treasure and well worth the exciting hunt.

ONE of the most attractive and original children it is Sally Forth's privilege to know is six-year-old Katherine Horkan, daughter of Major and Mrs. George Horkan, who reside in Washington, D. C. With her mother, the former Mary Thompson, of this city, Katherine is visiting her Atlanta relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pottinger and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Schweppe. The little girl was born in Paris while her father was stationed there with the United States Battle Monuments' Commission. She is a favorite among the army's children whose fathers are stationed in the national capital, and her clever comments provoke much amusement among her parents' friends.

Katherine, who has dark brown curly hair and smiling blue Irish eyes, is a keen observer for a child of her years. The smallest detail never escapes the little girl's observing eyes. When driving down Habersham road recent-

WE'LL MEET AGAIN

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

There was not a rustle of noise in the packed theater. Gay seemed scarcely to breathe. In concern for Chris, in love for him, she missed long passages of dialogue and even some of the plot. But what forced herself upon her consciousness was that Chris himself, in the person of a young actor, was speaking to her the love he would not say, and giving to it such force and power and great ness that she was shaken and there were moments when she felt she could bear it no longer.

A deep dramatic voice cried out to her, "I'm not offering you luxury and amusement and pleasure! That's not life. It's only playing at it. But I love you and I want you to stand and live beside me, taking what comes. Living is the most important thing in the world, living fully and intensely. When I stumble and fall, and I shall because I'm human, I want you beside me, and I'll be wiser and mellow for having stumbled. There will be good times and bad times because that's life. It won't be a merry-go-round."

Gay felt alternately hot and cold. This wasn't a theater and this wasn't a play. Chris was talking to her, talking again.

"There are some men for whom there is only one woman. To take another is to feel unfaithful even when one isn't legally bound. Nothing has been more abused than love. I can't make a pretty speech to you because that isn't my language. When I say 'I love you' I wish it had never been said before because it has been abused so much." And again, less violently, "You'll have to decide which life you want. Life with me will be inconspicuous but it will be free. Not a pent-house in New York and a villa in France. It will be a flat in New York where we're there, a room with a balcony in Nassau, and a small room at Capri where we can look at the sea."

Once she smothered a sob and hid deeply into her lip. She could not see for the tears and her heart ached with responses she could not make. "Chris, you weren't there the night of the charity ball . . . when the play was black ahead. Gregg was there! He is sweet and kind. No, I don't want to be mistress of a dozen houses and hostess to restless, pleasure-seeking people. I want to be like Penny!"

At intermission Gay smoked a cigar. The voices of people in the lobby were low and inarticulate.

Gregg said, "It's going over big. I thought I was going to catch up on my sleep during your friend's play. But I was mistaken. It's not a great play but there's no artificiality in it. It speaks the truth and some times people like to hear the truth."

In the final scene the audience did not know whether the distraught heroine would marry the rich young man or the poor young man, who was Chris. But when the girl walked off the stage as the curtains met, they remembered the line, "We'll meet again" and they knew she would follow the man who had nothing to offer except himself.

There was a storm of applause and a seven curtain call. "Not a great play," the critics would probably say, "but a good one that should have a long run."

Gay, drawing the satin coat over her bare shoulders, thought, "They like it because it makes old people remember and young people think. I can't decide! I've made my choice!"

She went to Margo Stevens' party where cocktails were plentiful and where scores of people came and went until dawn. She could not sleep when she got home, remembering words that Chris had shouted across land and sea to her.

Next day she went to the airport with Gregg.

"It's rather a shame to deny our friends a big show," he said. "I'll speak to mother about a quiet wedding in Florida and wire you when to come down. Cheerio, darling."

From the airport she went to see Penny.

"Have you seen the notices about the play?" Penny cried. "They're marvelous! Oh, this means so much to us, Gay! Mac and I will take a trip to Florida and see how he's always really wasn't a play at all, you know. He was just talking to you."

"I know."

Penny walked to the table and handed Gay a newspaper picture of Chris and a pretty girl dressed in white.

"That's Evelyn Ewing," said Penny. "She's put her hand on Gay's shoulder. 'Chris loves you. Do you want to spend your life looking and searching for the other half of you that's with him? Nassau isn't far away. You love him. I've known it a long time. I'm not very bright or very smart,' Penny said solemnly, 'but Chris is a kind of man whom an could follow to the end of the earth, asking for nothing except just to be with him. Love,' said Penny, 'is enough.'"

Gay said, "Please, please don't say any more. It's all true. But I'm going to Florida any day now to marry Gregg. He loves me, too."

"As much as he's capable of loving. But love is only a side issue to Gregg."

The next morning Diana came to New York.

It was Diana and not the maid who drew apart the silk curtains to let the morning sunlight into Gay's charming bedroom.

"Wake up, child," Diana said, sitting on the bed. "And look at your mother." She kissed Gay's cool forehead and pushed back a stray red curl.

"What elegant surroundings you live in, darling. You look splendid but a little tired."

"It's so good to see you, Mother. You look . . ."

"Like the country woman I am, sunburned from working in a flower garden and quite muscular from driving an enormous touring car over dirt roads. A cold shower is what you need and then we'll talk at breakfast."

Breakfast was served on the patio beneath a wide vine. Gay, in a lace negligee, looked across the little table at her mother. How well and strong and happy she looked!

"I had to buy some new clothes," Diana said. "Some sturdy linens and a new riding habit so I can gallop across country with Jerry. He's a darling. I don't try to mother him. I'm his friend and we talk and laugh together. Gordon comes down on week-ends. He stays at the inn and has his meals with us. We have an enormous black cook, a lazy gardener, and a maid who drops things. How can you endure the city? You can't breathe here and the awful crowds!" She paused and smiled.

"How I do rave, but I've found peace and contentment. What about you, dear?"

"I'm glad you came because—because I'm going to Florida to be married."

"You are like a child with an expensive toy who isn't happy with it," Diana said dryly. "This is all lovely, my dear, living so luxuriously, and you are lovelier in a setting like this."

"I don't want peace and contentment," said Gay stubbornly. "When I'm older, yes, but not now. I want to be wildly, madly happy. I want . . ."

"But I'm going to marry Gregg, mother."

"Out of gratitude. You owe him a great deal but you don't owe him your life in payment. That's too great a price. If you want to love some one else, you'll be one of those bored, restless, rich women who are more to be pitied than any other women in the world."

Diana looked at her with calm understanding. Some instinct had prompted her to come. It was as if an inner voice had urged, "You must go to her and tell her gently that she must not marry a man for whom she feels only a mild affection. You must not let the love she can give some man go wasting. Since the first night he came to dinner in the studio, Gay has loved Chris Mallory. Her splendid love would not be wasted on him."

During the days that followed mother and daughter were inseparable. They shopped and stopped in at cool places for afternoon tea. But invariably in their talks they went back to the days when Diana was reading tea leaves in the basement tea room and Gay was modeling dresses for Marchand.

"I shall probably marry Gordon one of these days," Diana said, smiling, "but it won't be out of gratitude. It will be because, next to your father, he's the finest man I've ever known. Jerry keeps saying 'Why don't you and father get married? You won't mind dear?'"

"Not Gordon," said Gay.

People, disconcerted by Diana was in town, phoned her to come to their parties. Lucia's mother sent an invitation to one of her "at homes."

Diana laughed. "Let's not go. Stella Baring is really a very tiresome woman. Let's go to see Penny and Mac. Those two happy children delight me. And tonight Gordon is going to take me to see 'Chris' play."

Gay lived in a state of expectancy, knowing that soon Gregg's telegram would come. Often she walked into the room where her trousseau was displayed and, touching the lovely garments, thought, "These are only things that hang on you. Chris never notices what you wear. He looks into your face. I know now that money and social position are nothing when I've got to spend the rest of my life loving a man I'll never see again. What do all these things matter when my body will be in one place and my heart in another?"

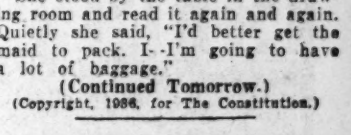

It was raining the morning Gregg's telegram came. "Mother, as soon as our plans stop having yacht sent down stop you'll like the house stop wire when you will arrive love."

She stood by the table in the drawing room and read it again and again. Quietly she said, "I'd better get the maid to pack. I—I'm going to have a lot of baggage."

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

Big business executives really ought to thing up a new excuse for not answering the telephone. Too many people are on the line in conference. That makes it tough for the secretary. She has to argue with doubtful Thomases. And it's pretty hard to argue about the when the boss is sitting right there in front of her, reading a detective story.

We can't see why it would be so awful if the Big Shot allowed his secretary to tell the truth. She could say, "He's reading a book, and I can't get his attention. He's just reached the murder scene. Then, you see the person on the line and let him know he would be all intrigued and he'd want to know what book it was that was so darned absorbing. Then, when she told him, he'd send out for it, which would take care of him for the rest of the day."

Or she might say, "His wife's here and they're having a good time to talk to him." Naturally, the other chap would see the logic of that.

There would be times when the secretary would have to say the boss was busy—but then people would probably believe anything she said by that time.

The brown bears of Europe are of very good size, the all-grown males being about six feet long. They can stand up on their hind legs, as can other kinds of bears. They eat any food they can find. They dig in ant hills, to get the grubs and the ants as well. They feast on many kinds of berries, including bil-berries, whortleberries and cran-berries—and how they do like honey! They go to a river, and knock fish from the water to the bank. They seem to think the head of the fish is the best part, for they always eat it but sometimes leave the rest for other animals to devour.

Now and then women and children pick berries in the woods near a growl. Looking up they see Mr. Bruin looking at them. He will seldom, if ever, attack them, but he waits until they run away, then goes to get the berries himself. In their flight, the people leave baskets of berries behind them, giving the bear a good supper of the sweet food.

There is a story of a Russian peasant who went to look for old honey-combs. He climbed a hollow in a tall tree, he climbed the trunk and let himself down in the opening. Sure enough! It contained an old, old, old honey-pot, and a great deal of wax. We are not told that he was stung, so the bees must not have been at home. That was good, for the man got stuck way down there in the hollow tree, and couldn't get out. Then along came a brown bear, also looking for honey. He climbed the opening in the tree, and let himself down, tail first. The peasant hardly knew what to do, but he caught hold of the short, strong tail. That alarmed the bear, so much that he climbed out, pulling the man after him. The animal leaped to the ground, and ran away. The man got down safely from the tree.

That story may, or may not, be true, but it came out of Russia, and is a bit amusing. Brown bears are fairly common in some of the wilder parts of Russia, also in many forests and mountain regions in other countries of Europe, as far south as Spain. Members of this brown tribe also live in Asia.

Brown bears have been tamed and trained by people in Europe, and have been used to entertain children and others in many cities and villages. They can be taught to "dance," and of course they rise on their hind legs as the public may see them standing. They have been taught to ride bicycles.

Captain A. C. Morgan, U. S. A., and Mrs. Morgan, accompanied by their sister, Miss Hubert Anderson, arrived in Atlanta yesterday from the Philippine Islands and are with their mother, Mrs. Hubert Anderson, at her home on Waverley way. Captain and Mrs. Morgan were stationed at Camp John Hay at Baguio for nearly three years, and Miss Anderson sailed 18 months ago to visit them in the Philippine Islands. Captain and Mrs. Morgan, who formerly resided at Fort McPherson, will go to Fort Benning at the conclusion of their visit to Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. Morgan, the former Miss Leonora Anderson, is socially prominent and exceedingly popular, and is a sister of Mrs. Jewell Hull, the former Miss Adelle Anderson.

Miss Eleanor Gray has returned from Nashville, Tenn., where she was an attendant at the marriage of Miss Ann Dickinson and Dr. H. V. Gayden, which took place recently in the picturesque gardens of the Thompson Lane home of Colonel and Mrs. Henry Dickinson, parents of the bride. Miss Gray is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Robert L. Conner, at the Ponce de Leon residence in Druid Hills, and leaves this week for Lakewood to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Inman Gray, at their summer cottage built on the shores of Lake Habon. Mrs. Conner also attended the Dickinson-Gayden wedding which was a brilliant social event, and the bride, as the former Miss Ann Dickinson, frequently visited Miss Gray and Mrs. Conner.

Mrs. Edward H. Inman, Mrs. Frank Hardeman and Miss Louise Fitten have returned from a three-week visit to New York city.

Mrs. C. L. Jackson, who recently broke her hip, is seriously ill at Grady hospital.

Mrs. Shelby Myrick, of Savannah, spent Sunday in Atlanta en route to Cleveland, Ohio, where she will spend several days before returning to Atlanta the latter part of this week to visit her sister, Mrs. Robinson Dodson.

Captain and Mrs. John Abbott, who were the hosts of the party at which Mrs. E. G. Hitt, have returned to their home in Charleston, S. C., where Captain Abbott is commander of the navy yard.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

SCORING AND THE OBJECTS OF CONTRACT.
In bridge the bids are measured with tricks, but paid for in points. Points are, therefore, the stakes for which we play in bridge and the final criterion of bidding strategy and methods.

The bid that will achieve the greatest number of points is the best final bid. It does not matter whether these points are obtained by scoring game or rubber at one's own bid, or by scoring an equivalent penalty against the opponents. In fact, it is preferable, as a rule, to take the penalty rather than a game or rubber, even when the expected penalty is slightly below the value of the game.

When the opponents have entered the bidding, the question of what bid in the partnership hands is the best depends entirely upon what the opponents could score at their own declaration. Your best contract, for instance, easily may be a sacrifice of 500 points, if by doing you can compel the opponents to give up their vulnerable game. The yardstick, therefore, by which the partnership's expected gain or loss is measured is the point value of the contract which you can make, or the contract which the opponents can make against you. If you can score 120 points for making four spades, and the game which you can win is worth 300 points, your total gain at your own bid will be 420 points. If, instead of bidding, you double the opponents and defeat them, 300 points, you have lost 120 points. If you defeat them 500 points, for at your own bid you could have made only 420.

North's two no trump response to the club bid was slightly shaded, but probably the best bid considering that he first had passed.

West opened with fourth highest diamond; South won and laid down the king of clubs. When the bad news was revealed that West had all four of the missing clubs, including a sure trick in the suit, the hand, which had appeared at first glance to be a laydown, took on a different complexion. It was obvious that a club and a spade had to be lost unless the enemy would rush to the rescue.

In order to hide from West the fact that he should not expect a trick in either diamonds or hearts, declarer laid down the spade king and then followed with a low spade up to dummy. West promptly made a horrible play. He ruffed the diamond with the diamond return, drew trumps, and spread his cards.

West knew that he had a sure trump trick. Whether or not declarer had a losing spade, he could not know, but certainly there was nothing to be gained by ruffing second hand and following dummy to follow with a low spade which might well be taken by East. Thus, West's play was a clear example of "everything to lose and nothing to gain."

TODAY'S QUESTION.
Question: Is a raise of partner's suit from one to four a shuntout?

Answer: Yes, it is a shuntout bid.

By FLORENCE LA GANKE.

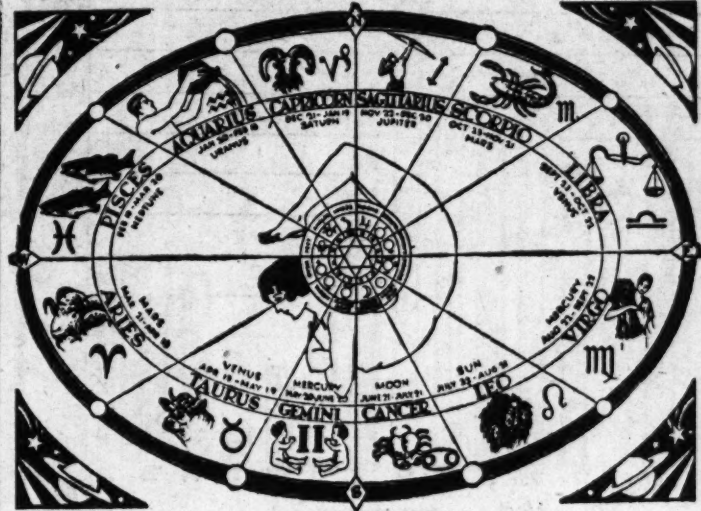

"Well you may use the name of this quilt, Nancy Page, but it gives me the flutters. Why didn't you call this pattern, flying birds or beetles or bantams, anything but a bat?" "For the very good reason that this pattern is an old, old one and I gave it the name that tradition has handed down. Any way bats are not so bad. That's all the bunk about bats getting in the hair and having to have the head shaved."

"WHO'S WHO IN THE ZODIAC"

MRS. VIRGINIA POLHILL PRICE.

Bernice Denton Pierson.

February 4 marks the natal day of Mrs. Virginia Polhill Price, editor of the Louisville News and Farmer, and democratic national committee woman from Georgia. This brings her under the influence of the zodiacal sign aquarius. Aquarius is the eleventh sign of the zodiac, the sign of honesty, popularity, intellectuality, kind-heartedness. Uranus is the sign's ruling planet.

A chart set for her birth date shows the sun beautifully aspected by the planet Jupiter, showing success in new things and with new ideas. Her natural business sense is strengthened by the position of the planet Uranus. She has developed the decisiveness of an executive—she knows what she wants and goes about getting it. Her chart shows that she has initiative and that she accepts and lives up to life's responsibilities. She wants to do things that are worthwhile and will shoulder the responsibility for making them come out right.

The Mercury-Jupiter position gives a hopeful, scientific mind, tolerance, frankness and true religion.

The Moon-Mars position adds courage to the nature and shows her to be practical and enterprising. It also gives a chivalrous, love of fine arts and unbridled courtesy.

Her success in life has been due to innate ability, accompanied by hard work and a desire to succeed. You can get your complete astrological forecast through The Constitution, compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best-known astrologers. CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Investigator Eugene J. O'Connor, of the state's attorney's office said today "iron clad evidence" had been assembled against members of the alleged ring charged with swindling the superior, circuit and probate courts of $100,000 in escrow funds. He questioned nine of the 11 persons under arrest for 19 hours, and said some of the escrow funds under investigation dated back to Civil War days. Members of the alleged ring were charged with having represented themselves as litigants, obtained fraudulent court orders, and then claimed escrow funds held in the office of the court clerk.

Rippey-Graham Wedding Plans Announced Today Are of Interest

Wide social interest centers in the announcement of the wedding plans of Mrs. Donna Stone Rippey and John Alexander Graham, of New York, whose engagement was announced recently. The ceremony takes place on Saturday, September 5, at 12:30 o'clock, at Paradise, the Druid Hills home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stone.

Mr. Stone will give his daughter in marriage, and Walter Graham, of New York, will act as best man for his brother, Mr. Stone. Mr. Stone will be the matron of honor for his daughter and little Ronna Virginia Rippey and Tommy Ames Rippey will act as flower girl and ringbearer for their mother.

Following the ceremony, which will be performed by Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, Mr. and Mrs. Stone will be hosts at a wedding breakfast complementing their daughter and Mr. Graham. Mr. Graham and his bride will leave during the afternoon for an extended wedding trip throughout the west, visiting the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone and Yosemite National parks and other points of interest before reaching San Francisco. From the latter port they will sail southward through the Panama canal and will visit in Havana before proceeding to New York, where they will reside.

Among pre-nuptial social affairs to honor Mrs. Rippey is the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Stone have planned for Friday evening, September 4, following the wedding rehearsal. Other dates and detailed plans of affairs will be announced later.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

SLENDER WAIST YOUTHFUL

The waistline limit is 25 inches circumference to 5 feet in height, and from this should increase not more than one-half inch with each additional height. This allows for quite a lot of latitude, so don't exceed it.

Some people—give an inch—take an inch! All too quickly we discard the activities which use the waistline muscles: turning, twisting, and pulling. We amble into middle-age waistline first without the suppling exercise that is the only means of keeping the slender.

Specific exercises for as short a period as 30 days, however, will enable you to see an amazing reduction in your waistline inches. It is wise to begin these exercises slowly, out of regard for your unused muscles, but gradually you can increase the degree of the bend and stretch—and this is the best test of your progress. For ease of movement, wear as little clothing as possible. Take a hot tub or shower immediately following your workout, to prevent stiffness or soreness, even at the beginning of your program. Always finish with cold water.

The four exercises which follow are all you need to slenderize your waist:

Exercise 1.

Movement: Raise the arms straight overhead, and at the same time extend one leg backward, touching the toes to the floor. Hold this position and stretch every inch of your body. Extension of the leg increases the stretch on the waistline. Perform the exercise with alternate legs for 25 counts.

Exercise 2.

Position: Standing with feet slightly apart, the left arm extended straight overhead, and the right arm tucked into the right armpit, elbows high in the air.

Exercise 3.

Position: Sit on the edge of a straight chair which has no arms, and extend the legs straight out in front of the body, feet flat on the floor and spread wide apart. Movement: Give an inch—take an inch! All too quickly we discard the activities which use the waistline muscles: turning, twisting, and pulling. We amble into middle-age waistline first without the suppling exercise that is the only means of keeping the slender.

Exercise 4.

Position: Lying on back on floor, arms stretched on floor straight above the head, legs stretching down. Movement: Keeping the shoulders and the feet on the floor, raise the left hip and thigh and twist to the right side. Constantly pull up with the arms and down with the legs, and keep the shoulders flat on the floor, moving the feet as little as possible. Now twist to the left side and again to the right for 12 counts, pausing between times. It is so easy to remove fat from the waistline area that no woman need to be a chunky waist. Exercise will fit your waist measurement to your structure and will keep your figure young.

Balanced Reducing Menu.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 11.60 cents a pound.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Cotton slipped off 50 cents a bale in late trading today on increased selling and reports that Oklahoma had received good rains.

For most of the session trade buying proved enough to keep the market on an even keel, but when professional offerings appeared in volume the market dipped and closed at the lows of the day.

October closed at 11.34, December 11.37, January 11.40 and March at 11.47. Spot middling at New Orleans dropped 10 points to 11.70 on sales of 5,477 bales.

Better cables imparted strength to opening dealings, but price fluctuated and narrowly avoided previous closing levels. Then a private crop estimate well under 12,000,000 bales brought a little speculative support to the buying side.

But when the weather map showed that the drought-ridden state of Oklahoma had received from one-half to an inch of rain in the eastern portion and the showers being tipped well into east Texas, offerings became plentiful.

A government spinning report issued today showed that 208,227 bales had been ginned during the period August 1-16, this season. This compared with 317,139 bales in the similar period of 1935.

The trade interpreted the drop from last year in two ways, one that this year's crop was late, another that the crop was under general expectations.

Spot sales continued at a good volume, hitting the peak for the season today with 22,739 bales. Receipts of 11,400 bales at Corpus Christi was another indication that the yield is moving to market in volume.

The unsettled conditions in Europe have kept foreign inquiries for American cotton limited to the past 10 days, the Department of Agriculture's Cotton Review said.

Domestic spinners are also holding off for the time being, waiting for purchases almost entirely to better white trades in almost all lengths of staple.

Receipts 21,762; week 35,803; season 2,045,656; last season 2,047,075; Exports 9,172; week 10,654; season 128,957; last season 156,674. Port receipts 1,224,000; stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 24,054; last year 18,917. Spot sales at southern markets were 22,735; last year 13,645.

LIQUIDATION FORCES.

N. Y. COTTON LOWER.

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—An opening advance in cotton was followed by declines in cotton today under scattered hedging and liquidation. December sold off from 11.58 to 11.43 and closed at 11.44. The general market was closed barely steady at net declines of 5 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 8 points on buying which seemed to come partly from foreign sources but once the initial orders had been executed the market was scattered selling promoted by private reports of rains in drought sections after the week-end.

The detailed weather reports later showed less rain than anticipated in these sections, which brought in some covering and trading buying. The demand was supplied on moderate rallies and prices reached the lowest levels of the day in late trading under renewed hedging and liquidation.

Exports today 9,172, making total of 124,516. United States port receipts 21,762. United States port stocks 1,221,988.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Cotton gray goods, sales were in fair volume at steady prices. Finished cottons were active. Rayon cloths sold in better amounts. Raw silk declined a cent a pound. Wool goods were in moderate demand. Burlap was steady but quiet.
